DAVIS' HOPES FOR NEW YORK BASED ON SMITH CANDIDACY

DEMS THINK GOVERNOR POPULAR ENOUGH TO SWING STATE.

G. O. P. WATCHFUL

Republicans Taking Advantage of Breach Between Hirst and Al Smith.

BY ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent

New York—New York state is to be, perhaps, the greatest battleground of the coming presidential campaign. With John W. Davis as their standard-bearer, the democrats realize their best chance of winning the election lies in winning some of the northern states east of the Mississippi river to add to the electoral votes of the solid south. The general feeling here at the moment is that the democratic managers will permit the republicans and the La Follette followers to fight it out in a great many of the western commonwealths. Of course, the democrats will not neglect these western states. Mr. Davis undoubtedly will visit them. But the battle will be concentrated in the east and the bulk of the campaigning be done here.

The best chance the democrats have to carry New York state is to re-nominate Al Smith for a third

COOLIDGE IS TOLD TO TAKE A VACATION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Washington — Friends are urging upon President Coolidge a brief vacation immediately after his formal notification as republican nominee here August 14, but the executive has failed to reveal any plans for the immediate future.

Mr. Coolidge, they point out, has been under heavy pressure during his year of office, being forced to assume the duties suddenly upon the death of President Harding. During the year he has been almost constantly at his desk while suffering an additional strain in the recent death of his son, Calvin Jr.

Mr. Coolidge has gained some relaxation in his week-end trips with his family aboard the Mayflower, presidential yacht, but the work incidental to writing his speech of acceptance coupled with the routine duties of the office last week kept him from this trip.

DAVIS READY TO LEAVE FOR CAMPAIGN JOB

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Dark Harbor, Islesboro, Maine — After two weeks in the peace and quiet of the Penobscot bay islands, John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee will start back to New York late today to begin the drive that is to carry his political fortunes into the November elections.

In his pocket is the draft of his acceptance address, the product of his labors in Maine and his all-important utterances of the campaign.

It will be delivered 10 days hence at Clarksburg, probably from the veranda of the Davis homestead where his sister now resides. While embodied in it will be a discussion of many issues, the speech's central theme will be "honesty in government," the 1924 battle cry of the democrats. The nominee will assault the record of the republican administration as disclosed in senate investigations and will attack President Coolidge and other republican leaders for what the democrats have charged was their reluctance in permitting the full flow of the inquiries and in acting upon the information developed.

KLAN ATTACKED, FIGHTS SCORES ARE WOUNDED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Lancaster, Mass. — After a night of disorders and clashes in which scores were injured, a crowd of men who had engaged in a night of hostilities with members and spectators at a Ku Klux Klan meeting in a field near here were dispersed with the arrival of additional state patrolmen today.

Between 500 and 600 men had engaged in the fighting during the night.

The list of injured today, following the night's fighting, included five men whose injuries were so serious as to require treatment at hospitals. One was a policeman who was struck on the head by a stone.

One of the injured was in a hospital suffering from a broken back and three others were suffering from wounds believed to have been caused

New York — A suit against her for annulment of her marriage, a counter suit by her for separation and testimony as a witness in the trial of a prominent lawyer for alleged bribery of a juror figured in the affairs yesterday of Countess Gosta Morner, formerly Peggy Hopkins Joyce; show girl, and former wife of two millionaires.

The countess first attracted a crowded court room when she appeared as a witness for the government in the trial of William J. Fallon, for the bribery of Charles W. Rendigs, in the Gregory-Durrell mail fraud case in 1922.

She told of a party with Fallon at an inn where he left the table for

COMINGS MAD AT BOB'S SUPPORT OF BLAINE; TO STICK

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison—Senator Robert M. La Follette will make known his attitude toward state office candidates in a statement which probably will be made in the next issue of his publication, it was said by La Follette leaders here today. They expressed belief that Senator La Follette will endorse Governor Blaine and other progressive candidates on the state ticket.

Denial that he will withdraw from the race for governor, regardless of the action of Senator La Follette, was made today by George F. Comings, another progressive candidate.

"I am in the race to stay," Mr. Comings said. He was apparently disappointed and angry over the situation.

Opposes Sachtjen

A telegram received here today from Mrs. La Follette expressed hope that Mrs. L. A. Kahlenberg, Madison, would be elected to the state assembly. Mrs. Kahlenberg is opposing Assemblyman Herman Sachtjen, present prohibition commissioner.

SIX FILE PAPERS FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Ekern and Huber Are Unopposed for Republican Nominations.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison—Attorney General Herman L. Ekern, candidate for re-election, and Henry A. Huber, Stoughton, candidate for lieutenant governor, will have no opposition on the republican ticket in the September primary, final lists of nominations announced today by Secretary Fred R. Zimmerman reveal. A total of 111 candidates filed for various state, congressional and legislative positions.

In the race for governor will be John J. Blaine, George F. Comings, A. R. Hirst, republicans; William F. Quick, Milwaukee, socialist; Adolph R. Buckham, prohibition, and Martin L. Lueck, Beaver Dam, democrat.

Four for Secretaryship

Four republicans filed for the office of secretary of state, including Secretary Zimmerman, seeking re-election; Guy L. Johnson, Chippewa Falls; Theodore Dammann, Milwaukee, and F. E. Davidson, Milwaukee.

All of the present republican congressmen will have opposition on their own tickets except James A. Frear of the 10th district. Three republican candidates filed in the fourth and eleventh districts.

Other Candidates

Socialist candidates filed for the five major state offices, for congress in the fourth and fifth districts, and the assembly in Buffalo and Pepin counties. The prohibition ticket includes candidates for the five state offices, congress from the seventh district and the state senate from the 32nd district where Henry N. Stephenson, La Crosse, is a candidate. Democratic candidates were entered for all state offices, 10 congressional posts and five positions in the legislature.

Several Held Up.

Nomination petitions of a number of candidates are being held up, pending investigation as to the required number of signatures, it was announced.

J. T. Kostik, Amherst Junction, an announced candidate against Congressman Frear in the tenth district, failed to get his name on the ballots, his nominating petitions lacking several hundred of the required numbers of signatures.

RUNAWAY CUTS MILKY TRAIL THROUGH FORT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Fort Atkinson—While driving Gunis and Church's delivery truck, which he had borrowed to take his son to work, C. D. Mattoon rammed an Edgewater milk wagon in the alley near the Black Hawk Tavern. He meant to put his foot on the brake but found the accelerator instead. The horse sped down the alley and across Third street, where it knocked down one of the ornamental light posts, then went on to Main street, leaving a milky trail. The runaway was stopped in front of Kelly's filling station. The borrowed truck had to be taken to the garage for repairs.

HIRST WILL SPEAK HERE FIRST TIME

Former Highway Commissioner at Myers Theater for Political Address.

The first republican meeting of the campaign will be held at Myers theater this evening at 8 o'clock, when A. R. Hirst, former highway commissioner of Wisconsin will make a political address.

Mr. Hirst speaks at Edgerton this afternoon at the Legion picnic. He will arrive at about 5:30 and stop at the Grand hotel where a reception will be held.

Marshall P. Richardson will preside at the meeting this evening. The Bower City band will give a concert in the theater before the addresses, from 7:30 to 8 o'clock.

Hirst has been making a strenuous campaign. Never before in a political fight or a candidate for office, this young man—he is just turned 40—has stirred up the enthusiasm of thousands of people with his bold and daring attacks on the present system of state government. He is a good, pleasant speaker and holds his audience.

REPARATION COMMISSION TO LONDON

Paris — The reparation commission is leaving for London at 4 o'clock this afternoon to assume a part in the inter-allied conference which is considering means of putting the Dawes report into operation. The suggestion that the reparation commissioners be summoned was made by James A. Logan, Jr., American representative at the London conference. Mr. Logan is the official American observer with the reparation commission during its sittings in Paris.

The reparation commission delegates will meet Sir John Bradbury, the British member who already is in London and hold a plenary session in the British capital at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

GASOLINE PRICES REMAIN UNCHANGED

The price of gasoline in Janesville will probably not be reduced further, despite a one cent drop announced by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana Tuesday.

The reduction will apply at all points where the company has distribution facilities, except at such points where reduction has already been made. The cut will not apply to Janesville because the 18 cent rate has been in effect here for some time.

A slight drop in the price of kerosene may, however, go into effect in Janesville, dealers stated.

Yeggs Scared Away from Brooklyn

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Brooklyn—The Brooklyn post office was entered some time Tuesday night by burglars, who gained entrance to the building by jimmying the rear door. The locks on the two windows on one side were removed and the shades drawn.

When Andrew Crahen, postmaster, came to work at 6 a. m., Wednesday, he found a large quantity of nitroglycerine around the edges of the door of the safe and a fuse ready for lighting. What prevented them from carrying out their plans is not known, but evidently they were frightened away. Everything was in good order about the building.

The thieves took about 40 cents worth of stamps.

War Department Can't Fathom Bryan's Stand on National Defense Day

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Washington — The criticism of Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska of plans for the observance of "National Defense day," Sept. 12, is attributed in a statement by the war department to "rather extraordinary inferences from what seems to be a perfectly clear document." His order for assembly of national guard organizations and appointment of local committees to help in arrangements for observance of the day, the statement adds, "will enable the department to carry out its plan in Nebraska completely."

Statement Expresses Surprise.

Expressing surprise over the governor's declaration against "mobilization" of civil or industrial resources or any activity indicating a national holiday devoted to preparation for war after he had expressed a desire "to co-operate," the department asserts that his stand "presumably is due" to the wording of instructions to reserve officers issued by the seventh corps area commander.

This document, the department emphasizes, makes no reference to "mobilization of the civilians" providing only that civilians who volunteer their services, for the day will be permitted to parade with national guard and organized reserve organizations in order that the processes of mobilization may be stimulated.

French Stirred by Simple Tribute of Sec. Hughes

(By Associated Press.)

Paris—Secretary Hughes prefaced another round of activity with a long walk in the fresh brisk air of an autumn-like morning. It was his first chance to see a little of Paris leisurely and free from the constraint of official ceremonies.

Not long after the distinguished visitor's walk a wreath was found lying on the tomb of the unknown poilu inscribed simply: "From a friend."

Instances are rare of such homage being paid the unknown warrior without previous announcement and more or less official parade, and it incited eager search as to the identity of the author of this simple mark of respect.

Mr. Hughes was not thought of at first because it was expected by everybody that when the American secretary of state accomplished this now traditional tribute he would be accompanied, as is the custom in such cases, by representatives of French officialdom.

STIFF TERM FOR LIQUOR POSSESSION

One of the stiffest sentences given in municipal court on a liquor charge in several months was handed Thomas Burchett, Janesville, Wednesday morning by Judge H. L. Maxfield. Pleading guilty to a liquor possession count Burchett was sentenced to six months in the jail, $500 and six months additional if the fine is not paid.

Police raided the quarters of Burchett in the Interurban hotel last week and confiscated a pint of alcohol.

About two years ago the man was fined $100 and costs on a similar charge.

Three inmates were shot in the rioting, one possibly fatally, and one guard was injured.

Superintendent Frank Moore requested that 10 state troopers be sent to the reformatory to remain until the trouble is quelled.

GAINS SHOWN IN ASSETS OF BADGER BANKS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison—Better financial conditions throughout Wisconsin are reflected in the report of state banks showing that during the year ending June 30, assets of such institutions increased more than $4,000,000 over the previous year, Dwight T. Parker, state bank commerce, reported Wednesday.

For the six months ending June 30, assets of 838 banks, trust companies and mutual savings banks considered in the report increased $444,479, the summary declares. Total resources of the institutions is reported as $640,567,114. During the past three months, assets of the banks decreased, due to seasonal fluctuations and withdrawals of funds for payment of building contracts and other purposes, it is stated.

A large decrease in loans is reported for the period, indicating, according to Commissioner Parker, that conditions are improving.

BRITAIN SAYS GUN CHANGES FORBIDDEN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

London—The British government has made representations to the governments of the United States and Japan that the alteration of the elevations of guns on capital war vessels or expenditures for the purpose of increasing the radius of action of these guns would be, in the opinion of the British government, a breach of the Washington convention. This declaration was made in the house of commons today by Arthur Ponsonby, under secretary for foreign affairs, in answer to a questioner.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Chicago—The big legal fight by attorneys for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed murderers of Robert Franks, to save them from the gallows, broke out in Judge John R. Caverly's court today. The engagement opened when Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, after resting his own case, sought to shut off all testimony of defense experts relating to the mental responsibilities of the youthful defendants.

He maintained that the plea of guilty prevented them from choosing any state of mind as a mitigation of punishment and with his assistants continued the argument throughout the morning session, even though Judge Caverly said he would over-rule the objection.

The defense told the judge that they had a right to show that mentality had figured in the circumstances of the crime, and the court indicated that he agreed with them.

The judge said, however, that no opportunity remained for an offer of insanity as a legal defense, and that he would not permit such testimony to be introduced.

When the dispute reached a squabbling stage Mr. Crowe said to the court:

"If you hear evidence as to insanity and then sentence these men

AMERICAN AIRMEN OFF ON FIRST LEG ACROSS ATLANTIC

LEAVE BROUGH, ENGLAND, FOR HOME BY WAY OF GREENLAND.

FAST TRIP NORTH

Land First in Northern End of the Orkney Islands in Six Hours.

BULLETIN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, Scotland — The American round-the-world fliers on their way homeward, arrived here today from Brough, England, at 4:10 p. m.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Brough, Eng.—The American army aviators continuing their world flight, hopped off at 10:24 o'clock this morning for Kirkwall, capital of the Orkney islands, off the north coast of Scotland.

Thus began the first leg of their journey over the Atlantic, by way of Iceland and Greenland, to Indian Harbor, Labrador.

Kirkwall, a town of 3,500 is situated on Houton Bay, on the northeastern side of the mainland, sometimes called Pomona, the largest of the Orkney group.

Stores Laid Up

Stores of oil and gasoline await the fliers there and tow boats and repairmen are ready in case they are needed.

The weather was calm, with practically no wind and the sky somewhat overcast as the aviators in their three planes took off with the good wishes of the small crowd, in the direction of Flamborough head, the promontory north of Bridlington Bay, evidently intending to follow the coast northward.

The six men were all in the best of health and spirits and confident that the success which has brought them 18,000 miles on their pioneering flight will not desert them during the last stage of their endeavor.

Before leaving the ground Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, the flight commander, said he expected to reach Kirkwall in about 6 hours, and that the departure from that place would occur tomorrow or Friday. There were no official ceremonies at the sendoff.

The aviators arose at 4 o'clock and at five were at the air dome getting their machines ready and waiting to see what sort of weather would follow the dawn, since it had been uncertain heretofore. There were no British or American officials present at the take-off. It is understood they will make their farewells to the airmen at Kirkwall, where it is expected 6 British planes will act as an escort to their American brother airmen.

FLOWERS TO TOPSY AND EVA--POOR COP IS GIVEN ONIONS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Chicago — Rosetta and Vivian Duncan (Topsy and Eva) the comediennes in the role of prosecutors' witnesses, were to resume their appearances today on the stage of an Evanston theater for the finale in the case aginst the Cicero policemen charged with breaking Topsy's nose and rib July 4, when her brother was arrested for a traffic rule violation.

Attorneys for the officers, who include Chief Svoboda and three patrolmen, charge Justice Henry G. Killiams, who rented the theater, invited the audience and ushered them to seats, with "making a vaudeville show out of the trial."

Behind the footlights of a flower-decked stage, with a crowded house that cheered the actresses and booed the policemen, the hearing opened yesterday.

A bundle of fresh green onions, resembling a floral tribute was presented to Policeman Widlock, whose case was called first. Bouquets were tendered the Duncan sisters.

Farm Bureau Official Information

LOWLY CORN COB PROVING VALUABLE

Many Chemical Products Obtained from Cobs—Iowa Conducts Experiments.

Corn cobs—the common ordinary red and white variety so plentiful in every farm barnyard in the corn belt states—and never worth more than half a cent bushel, may at some future time come to a station of value somewhere near to that of the corn they bear. There is at present great waste in cobs, which, under processes now under development by the Iowa State college of chemistry, may prove of industrial importance.

There is a variety of products which have been developed from the cobs.

Rock county farmers have found some use for the cob in a practical feed grinder which grinds corn and cob into a meal which is consumed by all kinds of stock. The cob has its feed value and goes as a roughage. Corn, well ground, has much greater feeding value than shelled corn or that consumed on the cob.

Acetone, a chemical that acts as a powerful solvent and a wartime necessity as a guncotton solvent, is one of the products largely found in the investigation with cobs.

Then It's Charcoal

Dry distillation of the raw product gives off this chemical, and with this and a few other minor products distilled off, the residue is a high grade of charcoal.

During the late war, statistics show that it was almost impossible to obtain acetone in sufficient quantities. At that time it was obtained only by the dry distillation of wood, and the value of the diminishing supply of wood in the United States was almost prohibitory to the extensive practice of this process.

Acetic, oxalic and lactic acids, all important organic chemicals, the source of which is at the present time rather limited, are obtained in plentiful quantities from the cobs when they are subjected to different processes.

Substitute for Gasoline

Furfural, a solvent, germicide, antiseptic and possible substitute for gasoline as a motor car fuel, is another of the materials which can be made in large quantities from the lowly cob. It will serve as an ever ready and always large supply of raw material for paper stock. Punk, wood flour, wood alcohol and incense are also on the list of possibilities for corn cobs. Sweet smelling incense may be extracted from cobs.

A new kind of plastic quite similar to hard rubber or the product known as bakelite can be easily traced back to corn cobs through the use of furfural instead of formaldehyde in the manufacturing process.

Insulation Needed

Because of the cheapness of the materials used, this product has a bright future as an electrical insulating agent, in these days of radio, when a material of high insulating properties is needed and when the two products used are both high in price.

Methods for the carrying out of the processes outlined by chemical engineers have not as yet been perfected so as to carry on the manufacture on a large scale of the majority of these products profitably, but it is certain that it will soon be seen in action. The secretary of the department of agriculture, in his 1920 report, says: "It is essential that processes be worked out for the converting of perishable farm products into commodities which can be carried from the season of plenty to the season when they are actually needed."

INSPECTION OF FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

Madison—Inspections of fruits and vegetable shipments by the state department of markets during the coming fiscal year are expected to exceed 3,000, according to estimates issued today. The report shows that inspections during the past year amounted to 2,374.

The first deal to be handled by the department this season is the Sturgeon Bay cherry crop. Every car of cherries being shipped by the Door County Fruit Growers union is inspected by the state.

"State inspection of shipments is entirely voluntary," Commissioner Edward Nordmann declares. "It is made upon request of some interested party on payment of a fee of $3 per car. The fees collected are used in carrying on the service. Other crops which will be inspected this year are: potatoes, cabbage, apples and onions."

THRESHING PRICES SET FOR ROCK CO.

Harvesting of grain crops has started in different sections of Rock county, and attention turned to threshing.

The price schedule established by the Rock County Threshermen's association at the annual meeting follows: Oats, .04; barley, .045; wheat and rye, .07; timothy, .35; millet, .06; speltz, .06; buckwheat, .15; and clover, .05.

Officers elected for the association were: President, George Bacon, Milton Junction; vice president, Albert Yates, Milton; secretary, Charles Tews, Hanover; and treasurer, Robert Snyder, Clinton.

RANGE IN PRICE FOR DAIRY COWS

Milwaukee—Range in prices paid for grade dairy cows in Wisconsin for the past month show as satisfying record, dairy men here say.

The following range of prices is submitted by officers of the Wisconsin Society of Equity:

Extra choice springing cows of good size and type (with cow-testing association records of 300-400 pounds fat) $125-150.

Choice grade springing cows without record but of good type $110-130.

Good grade cows due to freshen in 60-90 days $80-110.

Grade cows, milkers $60-85

Ordinary cows (milking) fresh last spring $40-70; others 20-50; Heifers $20-90; Heifer calves two to six weeks $15-30.

SALE OF FARM

Milwaukee — Promoters of the National Dairy Show to be held here Sept. 27 to Oct. 4 have made arrangements for a sale of approximately 300 head of grade cows, the consignment to contain only carefully selected and inspected dairy stock with records from cowtesting associations.

Many of the animals included in the sale will have been shown in special classes where awards were offered for type and production.

Robbers and man-eating animals are two of the dangers which India's native postmen have to face in lonely districts.

term as governor. Therefore, there is every reason to believe that when Mr. Davis returns from his island retreat in Maine the latter part of the week, he will confer with the governor and endeavor to persuade him to announce his candidacy. Governor Smith has pledged himself to do everything possible for the success of the national ticket. He could best render this service by lending his enormous vote-getting strength to the ticket itself.

Hearst-Smith Feud Bitter

The republicans are mindful of the democratic plans here in the Empire state and are prepared to meet them. It is the republican idea to make the most of the breach between Governor Smith and William Randolph Hearst and to encourage the latter to put Mayor Hylan, of New York city, in the race for the governorship as an independent democrat or a progressive democrat, or whatever name may be chosen for his ticket. Mayor Hylan has said he would run if there was a demand for him. Mr. Hearst is expected to do all in his power to foster this demand.

The feud between Mr. Hearst and the governor was never more bitter than at this time—the eve of a presidential campaign. Mr. Hearst's newspapers also have attacked the availability of Mr. Davis as the presidential nominee. Mayor Hylan, of course, stands with Mr. Hearst in everything political. There is no doubt that if he were to take the field against Governor Smith he would win many thousands of democratic votes in New York city and without a tremendous vote in the city, the democrats could not hope to carry the state.

The democratic managers are virtually powerless to dissuade Mayor Hylan. His course unquestionably will be dictated by Mr. Hearst and the latter is not in a pacificatory mood at the moment. Despite the Hylan threat, the chances are that Governor Smith will be re-nominated and will make one of his active, characteristic and effective personal campaigns.

Roosevelt Candidacy Possible

The republicans are casting about for a strong candidate for governor. There still is talk of the availability of young Theodore Roosevelt, whose political career was thought to have suffered a setback at the time his chief, Secretary of the Navy Denby, felt it necessary to resign from the cabinet. There was no attempt after that, however, to associate Mr. Roosevelt with the leases of the naval oil reserves. In the meantime, President Coolidge has more than once shown his confidence in the son of the late president and the young colonel was a prominent figure at Cleveland during the republican national convention.

There are half a dozen other prominent republicans in the state who appear to be willing to be struck by the gubernatorial lightning and who are anxious to get their chance in a presidential year. So the effort of Col. Roosevelt's friends to have him walk further in the footsteps of his father by gaining the executive mansion at Albany, is beset with many obstacles.

Republicans Are Confident

The republicans express complete confidence that they can hold New York in line for the national ticket even if Al Smith is re-nominated. They recall that more than 1,000,000 persons who voted for Smith in 1920 also voted for President Harding; and, while they do not profess to say the percentage would be so large this year, they believe the voters of the state would demonstrate almost the same sort of independence in choosing between state and national tickets.

The political history of New York state would not seem to hold out much hope to the democrats so far as the presidency is concerned. The state has gone democratic on the national ticket only once since 1892 and that was in 1912 when Woodrow Wilson won. The Roosevelt and Taft vote at that time, however, was vastly more than the Wilson count.

New York state went for Cleveland in 1892 and the democrats are saying that John W. Davis is enough of the Cleveland type to warrant the hope of carrying the state for him. In any event they are going to make a valiant effort in that direction and the republicans are sufficiently alert to the situation to make extensive plans to meet the democratic assault.

STORES TO CLOSE EARLIER FOR FAIR

Will Shut Doors at 11 A. M. on Janesville Day, Next Wednesday.

All retail stores in Janesville will close at 11 a. m. next Wednesday, Janesville day at the Janesville Fair and Livestock Exposition. This was decided at a meeting of the retailers of the city held at the Chamber of Commerce.

"The reason for closing an hour earlier than has been the custom in the past is to enable the merchants and their clerks to get home, have their lunch and get their families to the fair before the harness races commence," says a statement issued Wednesday.

"While no action has been taken by the manufacturers, it is expected the matter will be decided within the next few days."

As the time for the opening of the fair, next Tuesday, approaches, the big grounds and buildings are starting to take on scenes of activity.

J. A. Craig, a member of the board of directors and vastly interested in the promotion of better farms in Rock county through the children, spent all Tuesday at the grounds making preparations for the junior club exhibits. Special pens are being constructed for the calf and pig clubs under Mr. Craig's supervision.

Some cattle have already arrived here and from now on animals of all kinds will be coming into the city in greater numbers. Allotment of stalls is being made as rapidly as entries are received.

Separate Fees on Liquor Upheld

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison—Action of the state prohibition department in collecting separate fees for operations under liquor licenses was upheld by the attorney general's department today in an opinion to George A. Shaughnessy, district attorney at Milwaukee. The ruling held that a separate fee of $10 may be charged for a permit for each of the following: manufacturing for sale, selling, purchasing, transporting or prescribing liquor. This procedure has been followed by the prohibition department for some time, it is said.

MOTORISTS LIABLE IN CRASHES AT R. R. CROSSINGS

A verdict for $5,000 damages has just been won by a locomotive engineer's widow in the court of common pleas at Toledo, O., against a truck owner, on the ground that he was liable for careless operation.

According to the testimony, the truck and trailer which were hauling the turpentine from Detroit to Toledo, were in the nature of public carriers and therefore the truckmen were held to be liable for damages the same as any corporation or persons engaged in similar enterprises.

The testimony showed the driver of the truck and trailer did not take reasonable precautions for the safety of either himself, the truck or the train.

The family of the fireman has also instituted a suit to recover damages as has also the New York Central Railroad company to recover for property damages.

Two Villages See Need of Hiring Night Watchmen

Milton Junction—Need for a night watchman in Milton Junction and Milton is evidenced by the series of robberies the past few months, the most recent of which was Monday morning, when the safe of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad was blown and $32 in cash taken. Detectives of the railroad company are on the case, but nothing tangible in the way of a clue has thus far been discovered.

The robberies now include that of the Milton garage, the Hull general store, and the Milton Junction postoffice.

Neither village has had a nightwatch for years, but considerable agitation for the employment of one has been apparent here since the robberies, any one of which might have been prevented, it is believed, if a policeman was walking the beat.

State Ready for Wage Law Battle

No decision was entered in the case and there probably will be none until the three judges hold a further session, possibly in Madison, it was said.

Agreement on points involved will be sought, it is stated, as a means of expediting the case before the higher court. The state will appeal the case if the lower courts decide against the state on its merits.

"Hard Nut" and Proud of It, Is Runaway's Boast

A hard nut and proud of it. Only 15 years old but "plenty tough." Such is the boast of Clayton Hooper, 15-year-old Iron River lad, as he sits in his cell at the police station. He is being held pending the arrival of authorities from the Michigan city, from which he ran away over a week ago.

Hooper joined a carnival at Iron River last week. His position was that of "broncho rider" and general handy man about the show.

Although Clayton never had any particular experience performing wild west acts, he apparently succeeded in his new position and was "going big" at the time he was arrested in Janesville.

"What, me go to school? Not on your life," he scornfully cried when asked if he attended school. "The old man tried to get me to go, but I got a job teaming in Iron River. He wants me to go to school, but not for me."

Although the self-styled hard egg has no desire to attend school for educational purposes, he thinks he might go back to play football.

"I'm the best drop kicker in Iron River," he said. "Why, in one game I kicked 100 yards. No kiddin', honest I did."

The accommodations afforded prisoners at the police station, while up to the standard, are not especially comfortable. But propped up in a chair with his feet kicking the cell doors, Hooper says conditions "could be worse."

Maybe there's just a little fear in the lad's heart for his reception when he gets back to his Michigan home.

"I wonder who is coming after me?" he muses. "Boy, am I ever going to get——?"

RAISE IN RETAIL PORK PRICES DUE

Market Ascension Expected to Bring Higher Costs Here Next Week.

Advances in pork prices in local retail markets are expected Saturday, or early next week, according to butchers here, as the price of hogs in the big packing centers has advanced as much as $1 within the past week, for the ordinary packing grades. Others of better quality reached $2.35 Wisher than a week ago. The early top in Chicago Wednesday was $11.

The failure to advance here before is attributed to the large supplies kept in storage by packing houses and released to retail butchers as required. Most local merchants had orders in for a week or more in advance, they state, and will not change prices until forced to purchase at the higher rates now being charged.

Prices are expected to advance in one or two cases on Saturday, because of smaller supplies ordered at the lower cost of a few days ago, but the majority of markets will continue at the same, or slightly higher cost until next week, they think. One merchant believes the effect of higher wholesale prices will be felt here by Saturday, and that a general advance will take place by Monday. Others do not predict the raise until the middle of the week. That it will come, however, all are agreed.

Should prices drop, the same reason that has held local retail costs down for the past several days will prevent an immediate decrease to the former price.

PRETTY WEDDING AT MILTON JUNCTION

Milton Junction—A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd R. Young, 2½ miles north of Milton Junction, Tuesday, July 22, at 2 o'clock, when their daughter, Merle, became the bride of Henry F. Zelka.

"Oh Promise Me" was sung by Mrs. A. W. Coon, Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Esther Mayer. Ruth Young, a sister of the bride, acted as flower girl, and Lester Hamlin as flower boy. They carried ribbon-trimmed white baskets and scattered blossoms along the path from the foot of the stairs to the front room, where the bridal party took their places beneath a flower-covered arch.

Elder A. W. Coon then pronounced the words that made them husband and wife.

The bride was dressed in white satin and carried a large bouquet of pink roses. Miss Gladys Young, sister of the bride, wore a gown of lavender crepe de chine and carried roses and sweet peas. The groom wore navy blue and was attended by Mr. Glanville of Madison.

After receiving congratulations, the wedding party was called to the dining room, where they were served a three course dinner by two sisters of the bride, Misses Lila and Blanche.

The bride is well known and is a graduate of Union high school. The groom is a graduate electrician from Buffalo, N. Y., but has lived in this vicinity for the past five years.

Mr. and Mrs. Zelka received many valuable and useful gifts.

After spending a short time in Madison, they will motor to Hardin, Mont., to visit his mother and brothers. They will visit Yellowstone Park on their trip west, and return to Madison, where they will make their home.

ROCK COUNTY FAIR OPENS WITH LARGER EXHIBITS THAN EVER

set up. They worked into the night, but Wednesday morning found them all resplendent, a magical midway, with merry-go-round, whip, caterpillar ferris-wheel and all kinds of concessions, even the traditional goat who seems perfectly at his ease in the crowd.

Community Tent

The community tent is mammoth and will hold hundreds of people. It is just to the west of the fair house. Two new departments this year are the rural school displays, school work and the rural school culinary display is especially fine. Splendid cakes, canned fruit and vegetables, excellent needlework, arts and crafts. It will be impossible to do sufficient credit to these displays. One unusual thing was a fly catcher made by a 15 year old boy from district number 3, Bradford school, and in the display of the grades this year the circus made by manual training and arts and craft pupils should have special mention.

Made Own Garments

Another new department this year is "The made over garments," and there are several entries in this class. The china is very fine, the culinary excellent, considerable being entered Wednesday morning. The fancy work department is well filled. Wonderful rugs and one bed spread made from premium tags in the log cabin pattern attracts the attention.

The Rock county health exhibit has a conspicuous place in the fair house and is in care of the county nurse. The poultry tent is the noisiest place on the ground, but exceptionally large. One of the largest displays is from "Meadow Glenn Yards," Whitewater, with W. A. Hoyt manager. He has peacocks, white rabbits, Belgian hares and every fowl imaginable.

Flowers and Vegetables

The floral tent has many potted plants, but the cut flowers will come in Thursday morning. The vegetable display is mostly of the garden, but unusually good potatoes, cabbage, beets and the collection of grain in stocks is exceptional. Fruits are mostly apples, but good.

Something novel is the guesser, a man who guesses your weight. The fireworks tents are already for the night fair. The horseshoe courts are in the center field. Two bands, the Evansville and the Royal American, furnish music every day. The only drawback to a banner fair is the whimsical weather.

LUTHERAN CHILDREN AT RIVERSIDE PARK

Two hundred were expected to be present at the annual picnic of the Sunday school of St. Peter's English Lutheran church, held at Riverside park Wednesday. Lunch was prepared by the refreshment committee, Hattie Kueck, Gladys Holst, Miss Liehls and Mrs. C. W. Diehls. H. E. Larson arranged transportation.

Tell Girls
And women what I do for you
By Edna Wallace Hopper

My office sends me countless letters which thank me for new beauty and new youth. Please don't do that. Just tell to other girls and women what you've found.

I am simply passing on to others what great scientists gave me. The helps that made me a famous beauty, then kept my youth and beauty to my grand old age.

These helps number 52, but I have had them combined in four preparations. When you use any one of them, you apply quite a number of the best beauty helps in existence.

One is a cold cream which I call my Youth Cream. It combines products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to foster, feed and protect the skin. I use it as a night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. Never is my skin without it. I have never heard of a cream which brings anything like its results.

Now I am placing my Youth Cream—just as I use it—at every woman's call. All druggists and toilet counters supply it at 60c per jar. Also in 35c tubes. Just ask for Edna Wallace Hopper's Youth Cream. I promise you that as long as you live you'll be very glad you know it, and I shall be glad for you.

I will send you a sample to try, if you wish. Also my Beauty Book. Just mail this coupon. For beauty's sake, do it now.

JANESVILLE GIRLS LEAVE FOR CAMP

65 Motor to Rotardale for 10-Day Outing—Plan Week-End Camp.

Eager girls, ranging in age from 11 to 18 years, began to gather at the Y. W. C. A. before 7:30 Wednesday morning, in order to be in readiness to start for Rotardale at the scheduled hour of 8. Mrs. A. R. Glancy, camp committee chairman, had secured enough volunteer cars to transport the girls comfortably and by 8:30 the entire throng of 65 girls were started on their way to camp.

Each girl deposited her camp spending money with the Y. W. and received a card designating the amount. This card will be used to purchase articles at the camp store, which will be a safer plan than as if each girl carried the actual currency. The opening council fire will be held Wednesday night, and the next 10 days will be filled with many events dear to the heart of girlhood.

30 for Week-end Outing.

Thirty business and home women have signed up thus far for the week-end outing at Rotardale, Aug. 9-10. Nine of this number plan to remain the following week. Registrations are still open for both periods and may be made at the Y. W. C. A. or with Miss Ethel Albert, chairman of the business girls' committee. The charge for the week-end is only $1.50 including transportation to and from the camp. The party will go right after lunch Saturday and return Sunday night. A medical examination is required before going to camp.

Those who have registered thus far are: Misses Ethel Albert, Alma Badger, Lorraine Bowerman, Woden Bouziane, Dorothy Cockfield, Mary Daly, Priscilla Damrow, Miriam Decker, Margaret Drew, Mary Ehrlinger, Francis Fifield, Adelheid Fuchs, Lorene Kislia, Lura Lawyer, Jane Patchen, Hazel Lustid, Alice MacGregor, Kathryn Peirce, Marjorie Ridley, Mildred Schuler, Rhoda Sherman, Dorothy Stephenson, Dorothy Thomas, Freda Wortendyke; Mesdames E. H. Damrow, Louis Ehrlinger, Edmund Ehrlinger, and Mrs. Waggoner.

Active at Iowa Camp.

Janesville delegates who attended the recent Y. W. C. A. industrial conference at Lake Okoboji, Ia., took an active part in conference activities. Each of the delegates served on important committees. Miss Etta Persson was the announcer for the song contest. The other delegates were the Misses Mary Barker, Elsie Albert and Esther Mutchler. One of the most helpful features of the program were the councils in which different problems affecting the well-being of girls and women employed in industry were discussed in an illuminating manner.

MANY ARE SEEKING WORK DURING FAIR

Officials of the Janesville Fair and Livestock exposition, which opens next Tuesday and continues through Aug. 8, have a labor problem on their hands. The question that bothers them is what to do with the large number of applicants for jobs.

"We have had more than 100 after work," said John Soulman, president of the association, Wednesday.

"All kinds of men and all ages are looking for work. They offer to take anything at all just so they can get something to do."

AUTOS COLLIDE AT FRANKLIN AND DODGE

Cars driven by Miss Esther Thom and Andrew J. Gibbons, both of Janesville, collided at the intersection of South Franklin and Dodge streets, Tuesday afternoon. Miss Thom was driving south on Franklin street and the other machine west on Dodge. The damage to the cars was small.

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE AGAIN IN DIVORCE COURT PROCEEDINGS

a few minutes before dinner was served. The government is attempting to establish that it was in this interval that Fallon paid one Rendiga $1,000. Rendiga confessed to receiving a bribe.

When Fallon conducted his cross examination she admitted that she was not positive about the date of the dinner, but was positive he left the table before dinner "because she was hungry," and sent a waiter to fetch him.

Countess Morner left the spotlight of the court room through the judge's chamber to step immediately into a part that focussed more attention on her than her previous role.

An attorney was waiting to serve papers in a suit for annulment by her husband. She hurried to her lawyers, and immediately drew up papers for a counter suit which also asked for the recovery of $10,000 she alleged she had spent on the count in their brief married life.

"So This Is Romance"

When asked what he would charge in his complaint, the count said:

"I cannot reveal any details now, but I do not feel I am doing so in stating that my differences with my wife began the first night after our marriage. 'With the evidence I have accumulated, I shall astound the court.'"

"So this is romance," mourned Peggy over the failure of her fourth venture.

"I married a poor man and had to support him," sighed the siren of the century. "Now I am going to support myself and be an old maid for the rest of my life."

Count Struck Her

The pretty Peggy decided on a separation on Monday, when the count struck her in a taxicab because, she says, she refused to grant his demand for money with which to buy a new sport suit.

For two weeks, she says, money, money, money has been his only thought. Peggy discussed her latest marriage freely tonight. She commented:

"I am not a foolish American debutante, willing to keep a man for his title. I could have married other titles.

"I knew Count Morner had no money when I married him, but I thought I loved him and I was willing to support myself because of that love, believing he would at least pay his share of the expenses.

"But I have paid every bill he incurred since the day we were married."

Responsibilities

The public are more than users of telephone service.

They, and no one else, provide the money necessary to conduct the business, and look to the business to pay adequately on that investment.

The public tell us what to do, when to do it, and where to do it.

They tell us how much service they want, and when and where they want it.

We take these figures and find out what it will cost to install the telephones, along with the central office equipment, wires, cables and buildings needed.

Then we must go to the public for the new money necessary to finance these additions.

The telephone using public pay us for their service, and they must pay us enough so that we can pay back to the same public, as investors, a reasonable return on the money they put into the business.

Or it might be summed up this way: Telephone rates must be adequate to enable us to make a reasonable return on the money invested in the business. Otherwise the public will not invest the new money needed to give the tremendous amount of new telephone service which is required by the people.

SOCIALIST ASSAILS DAVIS FOR LETTER ON LABOR ATTITUDE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

New York—Commenting on the letter which John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee wrote to a Sullivan, Indiana, newspaper, saying he favored trade unions, Dr. Norman Thomas, socialist nominee for governor, asserted Wednesday that Mr. Davis was supported in the democratic convention by men who had fought the miners' union in West Virginia. Dr. Thomas added that the democratic candidate "never protested against the continued denials of civil liberty and the right to organize which have made West Virginia's record a blot on the American escutcheon."

"The labor complaint against Mr. Davis," he said, "is that he has never used his great ability constructively for the interests of the people. He accepted the support of the West Virginia delegation which contained Sheriff Don Chafin of Logan county, the most autocratic tool of absentee ownership in America."

EDGERTON LEGION IN HOMECOMING

Two Candidates for Governor Speaking This Afternoon.

Edgerton—Marked by the appearance on the same platform in one afternoon of the two leading candidates for the republican gubernatorial nomination, the third annual picnic and homecoming celebration under the auspices of the local American Legion post at the driving park Wednesday afternoon, appears to be a success.

Hundreds of persons were on the grounds to hear Governor J. J. Blaine and A. R. Hirst, former state highway commissioner, speaking within three hours of each other from the same platform. This was instead of a debate which could not be arranged.

Baseball games both afternoon and evening, fireworks in the evening, with dancing to music played by the Bluebird orchestra, were the main attractions. A number of carnival features added to the entertainment, and music was furnished throughout the day by the Edgerton concert band, the Rev. E. A. Boyd, director.

Blaine Attacks Gas Bill.

Governor Blaine opened his campaign guns on the gasoline tax bill which he vetoed in the last legislature in an address here today at the American Legion celebration. The governor attacked the highway department and characterized the gas bill passed as a "robber's bill".

Speaking two hours before his opponent, A. R. Hirst, was scheduled to speak from the same platform, the governor made a strong appeal against the highway program.

"I vetoed the gasoline tax bill because it was a "robber's measure", the governor said. "It robbed seventy thousand miles of our town and county highways of three-fourths of the tax. If the gasoline tax had yielded four million dollars annually, it would have put three million dollars in the state treasury and would have given the highway department power to take that three million dollars and dangle it before the county boards, commanding them to put up an additional three million dollars. It mounted higher and higher the burdens for highways. It would have meant an additional three million dollars in taxes on homes and farms and business property.

Objects to Collection.

"It provided for collection of the tax by the retailer, requiring every retailer to account for each gallon of gasoline sold and every penny collected as a tax. Out of the thirty-seven states that have adopted a gasoline tax, only five provide for collection by the retailer; five states provide for the collection by the wholesaler or retailer, and twenty-seven states impose the tax and collection of it from the importer or manufacturer. No state surrounding Wisconsin has a gasoline tax and three of them on account of constitutional provisions cannot impose such a tax."

The gas bill encouraged evasion, Mr. Blaine said, it encouraged "bootlegging" in gasoline.

"Had the bill provided for collection of the tax as a privilege tax on the wholesaler or importer, so that it could be readily collected and thus be less capable of evasion, with exemption to those who used gasoline for other purposes than road purposes, I would have signed it," the governor said. He enumerated other provisions which he advocated the measure should have contained.

Hirst Answers Blaine.

Following closely on the heels of Governor Blaine, A. R. Hirst, candidate for governor, entered a strong attack upon the policies of the Blaine administration and defense on the highway work conducted by the state highway commission.

"Nothing better illustrates the attitude of the present administration on public questions than the position of the governor on the gasoline tax," Mr. Hirst said.

"The idea of the gasoline tax is to make the user of the road pay according to his use, and to lift the burden from general property. A bill providing for a tax of this character was passed overwhelmingly by the last legislature and vetoed by the governor. It had the approval of the county boards of Wisconsin. Recently the Farm Bureau had a vote taken at the annual town meetings and thirty thousand of the thirty-six thousand farmers present voted for it.

Turns About Face.

"The governor has had his ear to the ground. After having vetoed the bill on nine counts, because it was a sales tax, would be evaded, and others, he now faces about completely and evidently believing the people have short memories, states that he would have signed the bill but for the distribution of the funds provided therein. I shall not use the words to characterize this. He now wants the funds distributed on the basis of road mileage. Green county has a comparatively small road mileage, but relatively more automobiles than any other county in the state, and you have a heavy traffic. Under the governor's plan, the funds you pay in for a gasoline tax would be taken away from you, because your road miles are small, and diverted to some thinly settled but large county which contributed but little to the fund, which had a small traffic, but which has a large rural road mileage. No plan more unfair, unequitable, could be conceived.

"I was for the gasoline tax, I am for it, and would sign a gasoline tax bill. The governor was against it, two weeks ago for it, and more recently has begun to hedge."

REGENTS RESOLVE AGAINST OFFICIALS BEING CANDIDATES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison — A resolution declaring against presidents and faculty members of state normal school running for state legislative positions was adopted late yesterday by the state normal regents and made public today. The resolution stated that the candidacy of normal employes for state offices "violates sound public policy."

It was announced also that the board will take action prohibiting faculties members from running for political offices.

A member of the Milwaukee normal school recently announced his candidacy for the assembly but later withdrew. A member of the River Falls faculty yesterday filed nomination papers for the state senate. The normal board declared it would not request faculty members now candidates to withdraw.

LIGHT CIRCUIT OUT WHEN CABLE IS CUT

Because a plumber drove stakes into the earth to stack a pile of tile and pipe, 25 or 30 of the ornamental lights in the vicinity of North Jackson street, were in darkness Tuesday night, according to William R. Schmidley, manager of the Janesville Electric company. The plumber drove his pipe into the earth in front of the new Flaherty building near the city hall and sliced the electric cable of the ornamental lightning system in two, thus cutting out the whole circuit.

U. S. Attorney's Office Prepares for Grand Jury

Preparations are being made by Stanley M. Ryan, assistant United States district attorney, for a grand jury session at Superior opening Aug. 5 when 60 or 70 cases will be presented.

Recent raids by federal authorities in the northern part of the state have brought a lot of work to this district attorney's office here. Twenty-three arrests were made last week at Wausau and seven at Rhinelander for violation of the liquor laws.

It is expected that about 10 days will be the time necessary to present all the cases to the grand jury.

The September term of the federal court in the western district will be opened before Judge C. Z. Luse at Superior, Sept. 9.

Rohlf Case of Interest

One of the most interesting cases in which evidence will be presented to the grand jury is that of Henry Rohlf, former banker of Hayward, Wis., and president of the First National bank of Hayward at the time of its failure.

Rohlf, formerly most prominent citizen of Hayward, occupying innumerable positions of public trust, languishes in the Dane county jail, in default of $25,000 bail demanded by the federal authorities. Pending action by the grand jury, he is held on a charge of embezzling about $5,000.

Blames Dead Brother

His defense is the most unusual feature of the case, as he claims that the defalcations occurred through manipulation of funds by his own brother, Ernest, who died several months ago. To cover them up, Rohlf claims that he involved himself, through his desire to protect his name and save the bank, by making numerous transfers of funds and forgeries of note, according to statements he has made to authorities and newspapers.

In the high type of man as he was generally regarded, the case of Rohlf is a parallel to that of W. H. Arnold, former head of the Madison Bond company, now under a five year sentence for using the mails to defraud, and out on $10,000 bail pending an appeal. The appeal will be heard in October by the circuit court of appeals in Chicago, Mr. Ryan said Wednesday.

JANESVILLE THIRD IN SALARIES PAID CITY EXECUTIVES

A comparison of the salaries of city managers or mayors in Wisconsin cities, recently made by the Municipal Information bureau of the University of Wisconsin, gives Janesville third rank in the state. The local city manager is allotted a salary of $8,000. The city manager of Kenosha with a salary of $8,500 is the highest paid official in the state, while Milwaukee's mayor is second, with $6,800. Superior is fourth with $5,000, Green Bay and Oshkosh each pay the mayor $4,000, and Eau Claire and Fond du Lac, $3,500.

Twenty-five dollars is the mayor's salary in several cities, including Augusta, Chetek and Seymour. Mellen and Onalaska pay $36, and several cities pay $75; but the majority range from $100 to $1,000. Some cities pay the mayor $1 or $5 a meeting.

Superior leads with the highest paid councilman, $4,500, and is followed by Oshkosh and Green Bay, with $3,500. Chetek with $15 and Seymour with $18 pay the lowest. Councilmen in Janesville receive no pay.

Milwaukee has the highest paid fire chief, at $5,500. Racine and Kenosha pay $25, and Chetek pays the lowest annual sum, $15. Amery, Colby and Glenwood have none.

The assessor's salary ranges all the way from $5. at Horicon, to $4,500 at Milwaukee. The health office receives $10 at Durand and $6,000 at Milwaukee.

INSURANCE FIRM APPEALS VERDICT

$9,000 Latta Fire Case Taken to Supreme Court for Final Decision.

Alleging error upon the part of the court in admission of evidence, and charging that the verdict is contrary to law and that the damages are excessive, the Fidelity Phoenix Fire Insurance company, through its attorneys, Nolan, Dougherty and Grubb, of Janesville, has appealed to the supreme court, from the verdict of the Rock county circuit court in which Warren H. Latta, Clinton, was awarded $9,375 damages.

Misrepresentation Charged.

The case was tried last December by a jury before Judge George Grimm and a verdict of $9,375 returned in favor of the plaintiff. Mr. Latta, a farmer of Clinton, sued for recovery on his policies totaling $15,500, for loss suffered from a fire on his farm on May 28, 1923. Latta claimed his loss was $9,550 on property whose value he fixed at $25,944.

The insurance company refused to settle on the ground that he had misrepresented the incumbrances on the property to the agent. Latta claimed he told them that he didn't know what they were but that they could find out at the bank.

The case is expected to be heard at the September term of court.

Cronin Case Appealed.

Another Janesville case that will be on the calendar is that of the Davis Watkins company of Chicago, against the Cronin Dairy and Ice Cream company of Janesville.

The defendant is the appellant, appealing from the decision of Judge Grimm who awarded the plaintiff concern damages amounting to $545 after a jury was waived. The case involved the sale of milk bottles to the Cronin company and its failure to accept the shipment upon delivery, claiming that the Davis Watkins company had been dilatory in shipping. The Chicago concern paid railroad company $214 for demurrage and then started suit in the municipal court. Judge Maxfield holding for the defense. It was then appealed to the circuit court. Nolan, Dougherty and Grubb are attorneys for the appellant.

A motor trip into the far-west! Everyone who has taken one is looking forward to the next one, and everyone who has not, has hopes of making one sometime. Many are on such trips now.

But if you can't spare the time this year, or if you haven't an automobile, what then? Of course nothing could be found that would be a substitute, but something of the spirit of the trip, as well as the scenes along the way may be had by reading.

"Westward Hoboes," or "The Ups and Downs of Frontier Motoring," by Winifred Hawkridge Dixon, with photos by Katherine Thaxter, is one of the most entertaining of the motor travel accounts ever written, and at the same time it is accurate in its descriptions. Many of the experiences told of are more humorous in the book than they were in actuality.

The City of Janesville

Ninety-one miles to Chicago; 71 miles to Milwaukee; 41 miles to Madison.
Population 20,000. Census of 1920, 18,293.
County seat of Rock county, one of the richest agricultural counties in the state of Wisconsin. Center of dairying and live stock interests. Leading producers of honey in Wisconsin.
Settled in 1835. Home of the first state fair. Was great wheat growing section. Rock river furnishes water power to numerous industries. Many different manufactures here—cotton clothing, iron and steel, woolen goods, fountain pens, plants of Chevrolet Motor and Fisher Body companies. Janesville Daily Gazette third oldest newspaper in state.
City manager form of government. Paving 9 miles of streets in 1924. Janesville has an active Chamber of Commerce where every manner of information in reference to the city may be had for the asking.

On Using the Library.

The library here in Janesville is not so large as some of the famous ones in the larger cities, but it gives opportunity for instruction, education and information. One need not be without knowledge on many subjects if the library is used aright. We are confronted by a most interesting political question—shall we have an election of president by the House of Representatives, for the first time since 1825? There is a great amount of current misinformation about it all. Yet every question may be answered by the library. Read Rhodes' History, the History of Presidential Elections, the Life of John Quincy Adams,—any short explanation of the constitution of the United States. They are all in the library.

Would you travel? The library has many volumes about places and events. Would you know something of the religions of the world? Read James Freeman Clarke's Ten Great Religions, one of the most interesting of the older books. We have a million or so new books a year—mostly trash. They are like the Canada Sailor, that post of a fly, which, born of water and sun, lives but a day.

Would you live over again the history of our nation in graphic form? Read the old volumes of Harper's Weekly, at that time in truth a Journal of Civilization. The Janesville library has a large set of these books of the Civil War days.

We plunge madly into the new books. If you have not read this one or that one, you blush and apologize. You need not do either. The book of last year is dead now. It is like the three ring circus; the performance of ten minutes ago is forgotten in wonders of the new aerial act in another ring. You can run the gamut of every human emotion in Les Miserables; you can find the greatest of the world romances in the Count of Monte Christo and the Sabatinis and Weymans and all the historical novelists have patterned after Dumas.

But old or new, the library is there for the public. It matters not whether you are in overalls or broadcloth, the readers are as welcome. The library is the institute of democracy and in this time no man or woman should complain that there is not opportunity for learning. One hour a day spent in books will give one, without a college education, such a liberal mental equipment that the holder of a diploma may envy him.

Governor Blaine is assured of the bootlegger vote and that of Senator Carey.

The Abolition of the National Guard.

Two years ago the candidates for various state offices who were elected, were strong in their opposition to the state guard and attempted afterward to put in force their demand that the guard be either abolished or so cut down as to be but a mere shadow.

Where are these persons now? We find the governor on Governor's Day at Camp Douglas telling how fine an organization he has and how he was vindicated in his appointment of his boy Adjutant General. We find the anti-militaristic state treasurer visiting the camp and his chest swelling with pride at the maneuvers of the guardsmen. Anathema was hurled at the supporters of the guard in the winter of 1923. They who opposed the guard are marked down on the "roll call" as enemies of the people. Among these are the assemblyman from Janesville who supported the guard.

Why this change of heart? How long will it last? There are votes in the ranks of the national guard now—active young men who are out and around. These enemies of the guard between elections are its friends now, just before the primary.

"Beware of Greeks bearing gifts." That is as good in 1924 as it was back 2,000 years ago. Once when the present attorney general of the state was chided for making some statements which were outside the realm of credence he is quoted as answering, "It makes votes, doesn't it?" Perhaps so, but there are people with memories left. So with the guard.

The national guard is the citizen-soldier organization of the state. It is a body of men of which the enemies even may well be proud. It has no apologies to make to any person who in the desire to establish the socialistic anti-military doctrine and the no-defense plan of the communal radicals, would wipe it off the Wisconsin roster.

Every minute the present administration is in power following election, just so long will the guard be in danger of abolition.

The New York Times, almost on the 50th anniversary of that newspaper's expose of the Tweed ring—Tweed being the Tammany boss—prints a page story laudatory of that Tammany which has never changed its spots.

We are anxiously awaiting the resurrection of the League of Nations by Mr. Davis. Can it be done?

The man who comes into this office and cusses the hot weather, uses the same set of swear words he had last winter when it was below zero.

The real issue in this campaign is Coolidge or Bryan. We will either have Coolidge for president or Charles W. Bryan. Take your pick.

THE DIVORCE PROBLEM

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington, D. C.—Continued agitation of the divorce problem, back of which is the movement for uniform marriage and divorce laws, is developing the fact that there is no substantial agreement among experts as to the real causes of the domestic infelicity that leads to the divorce court. There is practically no consensus of opinion among the lawyers, judges, psychologists, psychiatrists, sociologists and other students who, presumptively, should know why the matrimonial bank is wrecked so frequently.

There is a wide distinction between the causes of divorce and the legal grounds for divorce. The latter are ascertainable by a reference to the statutes of the several states and it is found that 48 different laws recognize as many as 35 grounds for divorce, ranging from the New Hampshire law which recognizes 14 grounds for divorce to that of South Carolina which recognizes none at all.

Plaintiffs who appear in divorce courts enumerate the legal grounds upon which they ask a dissolution of the marriage tie. They do not necessarily reveal the real causes of marital infelicity. Indeed, it is well known that divorces are frequently secured for alleged causes while the real causes are concealed deliberately or are never developed in the course of the court proceedings.

Statistics show that one marriage in every ten in the United States as a whole ends up in the divorce courts. At the present rate of increases of divorces it has been figured that by 1950 one-fourth of all marriages will end thus unhappily, and that by the end of the century this ratio will have increased to one in two.

This prospect alarms many students of the problem of domestic relations who call attention to the fact that in one state, Nevada, there are actually more divorces than marriages and ask where this sort of thing is leading.

Other students say that the divorce evil is exaggerated and point out that there are only about 500,000 divorced people in the United States as against a total population of more than 200 times that number. These observers cite statistics to show, in contrast with the Nevada record, that in the District of Columbia the marriages out-number the divorces 35 to one, in New York 22 to one, and in Georgia 19 to one, and that in six states there was a decrease in the number of divorces last year, the greatest decrease being in New Hampshire which has the most liberal divorce law.

* * * *

However, it is generally conceded that it is difficult if not impossible to cure an ill or remedy an evil if its causes are not known. If divorce is increasing at such a rate as to be a social ill or evil, it has been suggested that some sort of national clinic be held in which it will be studied scientifically. Let the experts get together, compare notes, make common observations and endeavor to arrive at conclusions that will be sound and helpful to congress and to the legislatures of the several states in their consideration of the question as to what should be done.

Off-hand opinions as to the reasons for the prevalence of divorce are almost all inclusive. They embrace everything from the increasing cost of living to a decreasing religious spirit and regard for the law of God. The movies are blamed by some people and the World war by others, while to jazz music and the dance craze are also ascribed a share of the responsibility.

Strangely enough, perhaps, prohibition is blamed by some observers and commentators. They say that the effort to abolish drinking by constitutional amendment and statute has brought about a disregard for and disrespect of all law, tending to promiscuity in sex relations and leading to laxity in the observance of marital obligations, and at the same time has increased among both men and women to a degree that it is inevitable that the road to divorce should become a well-worn trail. Formerly it was held that the saloon was the ante-chamber to the divorce court and it seems somewhat paradoxical that the abolition of the saloon should now be held responsible in large degree for the very evil that institution was formerly supposed to aggravate.

* * * *

Most of the experts who are on record appear to have been governed in their opinions by a study of one phase of the subject. A psychiatrist, for example, says that the fundamental causes of divorce are emotional insanity and feeble-mindedness, one or the other, or a combination of the two. A leaf must have been taken out of his book by the humorist who had the wife say, "You know you were crazy to marry me," and the husband answer, "I must have been!"

Another authority who gives common rather than fundamental causes says that divorces are due to poverty, women wanting what they can not have, neglect of wives by their husbands, nagging, drink, low mentality and sexual mismating. Still another expert regards physical mismating and sexual degeneracy as the prime causes, and still another says that in most divorce actions if you want to get at the bottom of the trouble you should look for the other woman or the other man, as the case may be.

A frequent if not a fundamental cause of divorce that has been observed is the meddling of relatives—mothers-in-law, and fathers-in-law and all the others-in-law, and hasty and ill-considered marriages are found to result more often in discord than in happiness. On this latter point one judge says that it is the height of absurdity for a country to refuse to permit immigrants to land here unless they can make a showing that they are not likely to become dependents while at the same time it permits a man to take unto himself a wife and assume the responsibilities of a family without making the slightest inquiry as to his ability to support them.

* * * *

The growing economic independence of women is generally recognized as one of the reasons why there are more divorces, although it may not be termed a cause of divorce. Not all women but a rapidly increasing proportion of them approach matrimony nowadays knowing that it will not necessarily commit them to a life sentence if it should result in unhappiness, misery or any undurable conditions. They know how to take care of themselves in an economic way and if husbands fail them in any essential degree they are not afraid to tackle the world by themselves. Such women, when love flies out the window, are likely to give their husbands the gate—if it may be permitted so to mix poetical allusion and modern slang.

It is interesting to note in connection with the movement for a uniform marriage and divorce law that conditions in Russia may be urged as an argument to influence American legislators. Under the old regime in Russia it was almost impossible to secure a divorce. Under Bolshevism divorce is practically a matter of mutual consent or agreement. However, it is claimed, under the liberal divorce conditions Russian marriages have increased at the rate of almost one hundred per cent while the number of divorces has increased by only five per cent.

TRAINING

Let me not walk the way
Head high and blindly,
Let me go through today
Bravely and kindly;
I have been taught the truth
Well do I know it—
Trained from my earliest youth—
Now let me show it!

I know how men despise
Souls, cold and cruel;
Honor's a thing to prize—
Life's fairest jewel—
I know what's falsely gained
Has no joy in it,
I have been truly trained
Fit for each minute.

Lord, they have told me all,
Told and repeated:
Onto them shame shall fall
Once they have cheated;
I have been taught the way
At school desk and altar,
Why should I then today
Fail them or falter?

They have not let me grow
Blind to life's beauty;
Here without doubt I know
What is my duty;
Let me then walk the way
Free from complaining,
Living this little day
True to my training.

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, JULY 31, 1924.

Venus and Jupiter dominate this day in benefic aspect, according to astrology. Mars is slightly adverse.

The new Moon of this date, which takes place just before sunset is an eclipse of the Sun and is rather promising in its aspects.

The rising position of Mars opposed to Mercury is read as presaging many libel suits and much slander in the course of the next few months.

Railways are to have heavier traffic than usual and will have some unusual burden of business, it is prognosticated.

Naval affairs are to be discussed more prominently than usual and they will cause trouble to certain officials, if the stars are rightly interpreted.

Crimes against women and children are to continue numerous and they will lead to an organized woman movement toward protection, it is foretold.

Labor is to benefit from many causes and the Presidential election is to be exceedingly significant for industry, the seers announce.

THE HOPE OF THE DRYS

Prohibition is the law and the great majority of citizens cheerfully accept and obey it, both because it is the law and because of the difficulties put in the way of gratifying their lingering desire for liquor by the fact that it is the law. Their natural inclination is to obey the law, and that inclination is the stronger when they find that good liquor is very expensive and not easy to get, that cheap liquor may prove to be rank poison, and that they have no redress against the seller. In the country as a whole, excepting a few states such as New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Illinois and there chiefly in the great cities, probably nine-tenths of the population observes the prohibition law, feels better for it and finds that the community is decidedly better. Those voluntary observers form a body of opinion that will steadfastly oppose repeal or modification of the Volstead law. Enforcement is imperfect, but it is gaining and will continue to gain ground, for the army of voluntary observers will constantly win recruits and make inroads on wet territory.—Portland Oregonian.

BABY EXPERIMENTATION

I cannot find anything that will agree with my baby, complains an infatuated mother. It is a sad commentary on our present system of education that scarcely a score of common or public schools throughout the country give girls any instruction in the care and feeding of the baby. Motherhood is by far the greatest and noblest profession of womanhood, but you'd never suspect it from a study of the public school curriculum. At the time when girls should be learning the rudiments of motherhood they are generally writing long winded "compositions" or fussing with algebra. Cross word puzzles would do their minds far more good, by way of training—but strictly I suppose algebra isn't a health subject, though I think it would be kinda hygienic if some one would kindly tell us the answer to this one: Why is algebra?—in not to exceed 40 words.

"He is eight months old and I had to put him on the bottle two weeks ago," continues this amateur mother. "I started giving him cow's milk, but he threw it up, and it constipated him. Then I tried Eagle brand, but with the some results. I am now giving him malted milk, but don't think it is going to agree either. I would like to know where I can obtain certified milk and how to use it. The druggists here haven't got it and have never heard of it."

Certified milk is just the cleanest, purest, safest grade of fresh milk obtainable. It is available only in towns and cities where the production and handling and distribution of the milk can be constantly watched and controlled by a milk commission, appointed for that purpose by the local medical societies or other responsible public health guardians. Very often the fresh milk you can purchase directly from a neighbor who keeps a cow is quite as good in every way as certified milk.

When you jump to the conclusion that the milk doesn't "agree" with the baby simply because the baby vomits or regurgitates considerable milk you make a mistake, for more or less vomiting or regurgitation of partly digested milk is a normal occurrence for the healthy infant—the baby simply rejects a superfluous amount of nutriment.

The condensed milk or the malted milk or any of the numerous manufactured "infant foods" might "stay down" all right and in the judgment of the untutored mother such foods would seem to "agree," yet they would be inadequate for the proper feeding of the baby. Even pasteurized milk (which is any milk which has been heated up to about 145 degrees Fahrenheit for about 20 minutes, then cooled again) would be preferable as the exclusive food for a baby, for you can prevent the chief injury which pasteurization causes by feeding the child, from the fourth or fifth week, a daily spoonful or two of orange juice, peach juice or tomato juice between milk feedings.

When an infant is fed chiefly or exclusively with condensed milk or malted milk or nearly any manufactured "infant food" instead of fresh milk, the infant is almost sure to be constipated—but that is one of the least, if it is the most obvious of the ill consequence of such experimentation on babies.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Making Coffee.

Will you gratify a large group of us here (the ——— club) by describing just how to make coffee in the Brady way? (P. LaC.)

Answer—First you search the china cabinet, the kitchen cabinet and the filing cabinet for the coffee pot and after half an hour or so you find it on the shelf over the stove. Then you institute a qualitative analysis of the pantry stock and after careful tests of 14 canisters you conclude that the coffee must be in the reservoir of the coffee mill. It strikes 9 o'clock at this point and the mail man files a demand for $1.28 for due postage on contributions of readers. Before launching the exploration for the $1.28 you put about a teacupful of freshly ground coffee to soak in a short quart of water, cold. It usually takes 20 minutes to find the $1.28 and by that time the coffee is ready, but you have still half an hour or so to look for the eggs, for before brewing the coffee it is quite essential to drop a few dibs of egg white in and stir it up well. Now set the pot on the fire and assign a special guard for it. The vital secret is to see when the coffee is just about ready to start boiling and to take it off the fire at that psychological instant. Let it stand a few moments, and then serve. You will notice I haven't specified any brand of coffee, but it is necessary to grind your own afresh for each brewing. Boiled coffee is an abomination which probably accounts for much of the neurotic prejudice against coffee as a health beverage.

Physical Training.

When I read your articles I wonder that you do not advocate physical training in the schools of the country, and that you do not set up academies to turn out instructors, as they do in such a little country as Sweden. You should have seen the women who commanded our exercises. They were Grecian beauties, nothing less, bodily, I mean, and they were trained for three years for their work. (Ida Ch. F.)

Answer—I have advocated physical training in every way and on every possible occasion I could do so. We have academies to train physical instructors. The young women receive three years' training and nothing in Denmark or Sweden surpasses them, or their work, but you are right, I think, in your suggestion that the people of this country have not yet been educated up to a fair appreciation of the importance of that part of a general education. Even our educational authorities and administrators are ignorant of this subject and therefore fail to give it serious consideration in planning the school programs.

Q. Why has the trans-continental air mail service a time schedule of only 32 hours and 5 minutes going east while it takes 34 hours and 35 minutes on the westward trips? W. J. R.

A. The postoffice department says that the reason in the schedule of the air mail plane is the fact that going west is a prevailing head wind which delays somewhat. The planes also stop at Rawlings, going west, whereas they do not coming east.

Q. Which coal makes a hotter fire, Pennsylvania or Colorado anthracites? E. M. V.

A. Analyses made by the Bureau of Mines indicate that Pennsylvania and Colorado anthracites have approximately the same heating values.

Q. What state had the largest population when the first census was taken? A. N.

A. Virginia was first with a population of 747,610; Pennsylvania second, with 434,373; then North Carolina, 393,751; Massachusetts, 378,787; and New York fifth with 340,120.

Q. Why was the name "strawberry" given to the fruit? V. L. W.

A. The name "strawberry" is derived from the Anglo-Saxon. The exact application of the word "straw" to the berry is uncertain. The old Anglo-Saxon word literally means "that which is scattered about," and was originally applied to the broken stalks of grain after threshing. In connection with the berry, the word may be taken in the sense of a long stem, referring to the runners of the plant or it may allude to an old habit of stringing the berries on a straw. The word is often explained as a corruption of the supposed stray berry or even as referring to the common use of straw or hay about the plants to keep the earth from soiling the berries. No corresponding word appears in other languages.

AIR SERVICE INQUIRY WILL BE THOROUGH

Oshkosh, Wis.—In calling a meeting for Monday, Aug. 4, of the committee of inquiry into the operations of the United States Air services, at Washington, D. C., Representative Florian Lampert of Oshkosh, chairman of the committee, expects much preliminary work will be accomplished in sessions that will continue for about a week. It is probable that adjournment will then be taken until a later date.

While there are no indications that there will be any sensational features connected with the investigation, such as developed in the oil scandal, Mr. Lampert stated today that a careful and complete inquiry would be made of the air service department of the government with the purpose in view of determining whether there is anything radically wrong with that department.

Madison—The state board of medical examiners has no power to enact a rule requiring every applicant to practice medicine and surgery, osteopathy and osteopathy surgery, to be a citizen of the United States, the attorney general's department held today in an opinion to Dr. J. Gurnsy Taylor, president of the state board. Such a ruling has been proposed, it is stated.

HEALTH OFFICER NOT NECESSARILY DISEASE EXPERT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Madison—A health officer is not qualified under existing state health laws to diagnose communicable diseases merely by reason of his being health officer, Assistant Attorney General Messerschmidt today advised Stanley G. Gordon, district attorney at La Crosse.

In an action for violation of a quarantine, testimony of a health officer is admissible under certain restrictions, the ruling declared, including: the officer must be shown to be a skilled person, to have had both training and study and experience in the specific medical subject involved.

MISTRESS WILDING:

A ROMANCE, BY RAFAEL SABATINI.

(Author of "Scaramouche", "Captain Blood", "Fortune's Fool", etc.)

Ruth, who was seated pensive by her window, rose on Diana's impetuous entrance, and in the deepening twilight she looked almost ghostly in her gown of shimmering white satin, sewn with pearls about the neck of the low-cut bodice.

"Diana!" she cried. "You startled me."

"Not so much as I am yet to do," answered Diana, breathing excitement. She threw back the wimple from her head, and pulling away her cloak, tossed it on to the bed. "Mr. Wilding is in Bridgwater," she announced.

There was a faint rustle from the stiff satin of Ruth's gown. "Then ..." her voice shook slightly. "Then ... he is not dead," she said, more because she felt that she must say something that because her words fitted the occasion.

"Not yet," said Diana grimly.

"Not yet?"

"He sups to-night at Mr. Newlington's," Miss Horton exclaimed in a voice pregnant with meaning.

"Ah!" It was a cry from Ruth, sharp as if she had been stabbed. She sank back to her seat by the window, smitten down by this sudden news.

There was a pause, which fretted Diana, who now craved knowledge of what might be passing in her cousin's mind. She advanced towards Ruth and laid a trembling hand on her shoulder, where the white gown met the ivory neck. "He must be warned," she said.

"But ... but how?" stammered Ruth. "To warn him were to betray Sir Rowland."

"Sir Rowland?" cried Diana in high scorn.

"Yes, and Mr. Newlington, and all the other knaves that are engaged in this murderous business. Well?" she demanded. "Will you do it, or must I?"

"Do it?" Ruth's eyes sought her cousin's white, excited face in the quasi-darkness. "But have you thought of what it will mean? Have you thought of the poor people that will perish unless the Duke is taken and this rebellion brought to an end?"

"Thought of it?" repeated Diana witheringly. "Not I. I have thought that Mr. Wilding is here and like to have his throat cut before an hour is past."

"Tell me, are you sure of this?" asked Ruth.

"I have it from your husband's own lips," Diana answered, and told her in a few words of her meeting with Mr. Wilding.

Ruth sat with hands folded in her lap, her eyes on the dim violet after-glow in the west, and her mind wrestling with this problem that Diana had brought her.

"Diana," she cried at last, "what am I to do?"

"Do?" echoed Diana. "Is it not plain? Warn Mr. Wilding."

"But Richard?"

"Mr. Wilding saved Richard's life ..."

"I know. I know. My duty is to warn him."

"Then why hesitate?"

"My duty is also to keep faith with Richard, to think of those poor misguided folk who are to be saved by this," cried Ruth in an agony. "If Mr. Wilding is warned, they will all be ruined."

Diana stamped her foot impatiently. "Had I thought to find you in this mind, I had warned him myself," said she.

"Ah! Why did you not?"

"That the chance of doing so might be yours. That you might thus repay him the debt in which you stand."

"Diana, I can't!" The words broke from her in a sob.

But whatever her interest in Mr. Wilding for her own sake, Diana's prime intent was the thwarting Sir Rowland Blake. If Wilding were warned of what manner of feast was spread at Newlington's, Sir Rowland would be indeed undone.

"You think of Richard," she exclaimed, "and you know that Richard is to have no active part in the affair—that he will run no risk. They have assigned him but a sentry duty that he may warn Blake and his followers if any danger threatens them."

"It is not of Richard's life I am thinking, but his honour, of his trust in me. To warn Mr. Wilding were ... to commit an act of betrayal."

"And is Mr. Wilding to be slaughtered with his friends?" Diana asked her. "Resolve me that. Time presses. In half an hour it will be too late."

That allusion to the shortness of the time brought Ruth an inspiration. Suddenly she saw a way. Wilding should be saved, and yet she would not break faith with Richard nor ruin those others. She would detain him, and whilst warning him at the last moment, in time for him to save himself, not do so until it must be too late for him to warn the others. Thus she would do her duty by him, and yet keep faith with Richard and Sir Rowland. She had resolved, she thought, the awful difficulty that had confronted her. She rose suddenly, heartened by the thought.

"Give me your cloak and wimple," she bade Diana, and Diana flew to do her bidding. "Where is Mr. Wilding lodged?" she asked.

"At the sign of The Ship—overlooking the Cross, with Mr. Trenchard. Shall I come with you?"

"No," answered Ruth without hesitation. "I will go alone." She drew the wimple well over her head, so that in its shadows her face might lie concealed, and hid her shimmering white dress under Diana's cloak.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Crab Meat Salad—Take one can crab meat, remove from can immediately on opening. Pick in shreds. Add three-quarter cup celery with thick mayonnaise. Have a large platter ready. Put sufficient leaves of head lettuce on to cover. Fill the lettuce leaves with mixed celery and crab meat. Slice tomatoes (peeled) over top in orderly rows and in center row slice hard boiled egg. On top of each slice tomato put dab of mayonnaise. In making this salad, have all ingredients well drained and your mayonnaise thick; otherwise an unappetizing, watery salad will result. This salad may be varied by using shrimps or lobster in place of crab meat.

Rice Croquettes—Take one cup cold cooked rice, add one well beaten egg. Drop by spoonful on greased frying pan. Turn when brown; serve with jam.

Berry Shortcake—Take sufficient pie crust dough for one pie, roll medium thin, have buttered plate, lay on flat and bake brown and crisp. Split, butter and put berries between and on top. Recipe for pie crust calls for six tablespoons flour, four tablespoons shortening and butter mixed, two tablespoons ice water. It is easy to remember, being multiples of two.

French Fried Potatoes—Potatoes may be fried in the morning and put in hot oven for few minutes when ready to serve.

SUGGESTIONS

A piece of sandpaper put under both clamps of the food chopper, rough side up, will keep them from working loose and slipping.

When whitewashing the cellar add a few drops of bluing to whitewash; also add a small quantity of salt. This will make it a much whiter color and also make the whitewash cling much better to the wall.

CANNING

If you are a June or July bride, do not let the prospect of canning frighten you. Our mothers and grandmothers "put up" fruit by the bushel and crate, but that is no reason why we should. And even if we feel we must have a goodly supply of home canned fruit on hand there is no reason why we should labor all day and half the night to take care of it. Put it up in small quantities. A few boxes of berries will make several glasses of jam or jelly or a few cans of preserves; the work will not tire you so that hereafter you think with dread of canning time. And a few cans at a time will fill up your shelves.

WHOLE FAMILY ENDORSE TANLAC AS BEST TONIC

"Tanlac has been our constant friend for years, and my wife and mysolf and eight children are all enjoying wonderful health, largely due to this medicine," is the remarkable statement of Harry H. Pistole, 810 Archer St., Waco, Texas.

"In my own case Tanlac has done what seemed to be impossible. When I began taking it my stomach was in such a bad fix that I had to live on a milk and egg diet and I was almost a skeleton. I had been flat of my back in bed and under treatment for 18 months and felt that my time was about up.

"After my case had been given up as hopeless and I thought I was beyond redemption a relative put me on to Tanlac, and the result is, I gained 20 pounds, and enjoy as good health as anybody could wish.

"My wife was all broken down in health. But now she weighs 155 pounds, and is strong and well and I am giving Tanlac credit for it. We give Tanlac to the children to tone them up and make them grow, and nobody ever had a healthier set of children than we have.

"Tanlac is certainly the greatest medicine on earth for anyone whose life is wrecked by bad health. We sure do have a great deal to praise Tanlac for at my house."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 millions bottles sold.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

TRAVELING WITH BABY

There are so many queries about how the baby's milk may be prepared and the baby cared for when traveling, that while an article on this subject appeared not so long ago, it must have been missed by many interested persons.

If the baby is breast fed, traveling represents little trouble. A thermos bottle for boiled water and a smaller bottle for giving it, or a tiny cup; a rubber bag for soiled diapers; paper diapers for use inside the regular ones; some simple, easily cleaned toys; a small pillow and blanket for the baby's special use and the regular fitted toilet basket used at the bathing hour, are usually all that need be carried for the baby. If all these are put in one suit case, along with the baby's clean clothes, the mother will find caring for the baby on the train most convenient.

For the bottle baby the food problem is no small one. Unless the journey is a short one it is not advisable to try to carry enough milk in the hot weather to last for the journey. If it can be prepared by a regular milk station, and the milk pasteurized after it is diluted and then kept ice cold until used, it might be all right; but under ordinary circumstances it would be far better to carry dried or powdered milk, which takes up little space and does not need to be mixed until it is ready to use. Powdered milk must be diluted to make ordinary milk; then it must again be diluted just as regular milk would be, to make the baby's formula, and the sugar added. This can be done with the boiled water carried in the thermos bottle, and the mother can figure out exactly how much milk and water it takes to reduce the milk to its regulation strength for the baby, and mixing it is but the work of a few minutes.

Never carry milk warm in the thermos bottle. Warming the milk causes all bacteria to hurry and multiply, and the milk, even if not sour, is unfit for use and would certainly cause a serious digestive disturbance.

Merely to keep the baby quiet do not stuff him with crackers and fruit during the day. This may be temporarily quieting, but is certain to upset his stomach, and the unusual activity and excitement combined will make a crosser baby in the end. If the baby is made comfortable, given only his regular rations and water, he will suffer no ill effects of a train journey.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

GIVE HIM UP

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 16 years old and go with a boy six years my senior. I think quite a bit of him and have gone with him for two months steady. He is a nice young man in some ways, but the last time I was with him he said something I didn't approve of and never will. I don't think he meant it, but still it made me angry at him and I don't know whether to give him up or not. He has been married before and he and his wife have separated. Shall I wait until school and then give him up? I am still in school and aim to go ahead and never let him stop me. What shall I do? There is another boy I correspond with in another state and I really like him the better and from the way he acts he thinks a lot of me. Should I give up the first and go with the one I like better? The latter boy is only three years my senior. My folks approve of my going in good company just so I don't stay out later than 9 o'clock at night.

PUZZLED EDNA.

You have not stated the nature of the young man's offense. If he insulted you I would certainly advise you to drop him at once. Anyway since you are not satisfied with his conduct and care for some one else, it would probably be wise for you to give him up.

LOST HAPPINESS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 16 years old. I have been going with a boy for eight months and until last month he was true to me. When I began to go around with him I didn't care for him, but as soon as I knew he loved me I began to love him. We were very happy until a few weeks ago. There was a dance and he invited another girl. My cousin was there and she told me everything. The next day I saw him and told him what I had heard, and he tried to deny it. He said he loved only me. She is a very pretty girl and I think she is prettier than I am, but people say I am prettier than she is. She is 15, in the eighth grade, not good, and goes out too much with boys. This boy has gone out of town with his father and mother now. He told me he would come back to me for the 4th of July, but he didn't keep his promise. I knew that he spent his 4th in another place. I was very angry and I haven't answered his letters. There is another who used to care for me, and now that he knows that this boy has gone out of town he speaks very kindly. Should I go with him or wait for the other boy who will be coming back to school in September? And should I continue writing him? JUNIOR GIRL.

There is no reason why you should have only one boy friend, or why you should expect a boy to go with you exclusively. I would advise you to go with the boy who is in town as well as the one who is out of town. You are not engaged and it would be all right for you to do so. Continue to write to the boy who is out of town if you want to, but do not mention the fact that you do not like the way he is acting. He will only think you are jealous and he will care less instead of more for you. Also do not try to impress him with the fact that you are going with some one else. He will probably hear about it and then he may feel he is losing you and show more interest in you.

NAVY SWEETHEART

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am engaged to a fellow who recently joined the navy because of trouble at home. We have been corresponding every other day until recently. Since then I have heard no more. I love him and I know he loves me. His friendship means life itself to me. Should I write to him and ask him what is wrong, or should I just wait to see if he answers? BROWN EYES.

Write to see what is wrong. Since you are engaged, you have every reason to know why he is silent. In case he is sick a letter from you would mean a great deal to him.

MISS A. M. H.: I do not know the lonely boy's address and besides, as I have said many times, I don't give out addresses.

Minister Thankful

"I had stomach trouble for nearly 20 years, also constipation which filled my system with gas and fever. I could not do my work, and while I was down sick a lady from out of town sent me a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy which proved truly wonderful. I believe it is the best medicine on earth." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Asthma and Hay Fever A Guaranteed Relief

"I have arranged with all druggists here, as well as in all other towns of the U. S., that every sufferer from Asthma, Hay Fever or Bronchial Asthma, can try my treatment entirely at my risk," Dr. R. Schiffmann announces. He says: "Buy a package of my Asthmador, try it, and if it does not afford you immediate relief, or if you do not find it the best remedy you have ever used, take it back to your druggist and he will return your money cheerfully and without any question whatever. After seeing the grateful relief it has afforded in hundreds of cases which had been considered incurable, and which had been given up in despair, I know what it will do. I am so sure that it will do the same for others that I am not afraid to guarantee it will relieve instantaneously. Druggists, anywhere, handling Asthmador will return your money if you say so. You are to be the sole judge and under this positive guarantee absolutely no risk is run in buying Asthmador." Also sent on same guarantee, per parcel post, C. O. D., if not kept by your Druggist, by addressing R. Schiffmann Co., 1734 N. Main, Los Angeles, Calif. Price 65 cents. —Advertisement.

EARS AND CHARACTER

A great deal of character can be told from the ears if one is the least bit clever. Not very much has been written on this subject. As a general rule large ears belong to coarse natures, and thick ears to brutal ones. Small ears indicate refinement, long ears an intellectual nature, pointed ears a whimsical one. What is known as "good blood" or good family can be told better by the ears than by any other feature, for the shape of the ears will go unmodified through many generations of a family. There is the famous Bourbon ear, so well known that it got many a descendant of that royal family in trouble after the French revolution.

Whatever you can do to your other features, you can't change the shape of your ears. But if they're ugly you can cover them up, which is a great comfort; and if they do not lie flat you can train them into position by wearing ear caps at night, or by having a simple and inexpensive operation performed.

Many cases of apparent deafness are due to nothing but badly cared for ears. Lumps of hardened wax collect in the canal, shutting out sound and sometimes producing eczema or erythema of the surrounding skin. In any such trouble go at once to an ear specialist; in any case go once a year or once in six months and have the ears syringed; or go to your doctor. He will pour a little oxygenated boracic water into each ear. After this has been 10 minutes or a quarter of an hour in the ear canal he will dry it out with cotton and pour in a little lukewarm oil. You can give this treatment to yourself or your family, but I advise you to ask your doctor first the proportion of oxygen and boracic powder to the water, and the special sort of oil he prefers. But if you are hard of hearing, go to a specialist for the syringing.

Mildred S.—If you shave the hair on your neck or arms it will come in coarser and most likely much thicker. You had better bleach the hair on arms with peroxide; dampen that on the neck with a thin mucilage and push it up into the rest of your hair, gathering the ends under the hair net. Such a mucilage can be made by dissolving a small piece of gum tragacanth in hot water, and thinning it out to a thin gummy consistency.

Are your ears beautiful?

Anxious, Catherine, W. F.—Use very little powder for a time, and take a daily warm bath all over. I think the pores in your complexion will soon show improvement with this treatment. Relieving the complexion by keeping the pores over the whole body active is one of the ways of getting rid of blackheads.

Dinner Stories

When Uncle Jack came to visit Billy's family, Billy's mother made a three-tier chocolate cake that was a work of art.

There had been so much talk of the appearance of the wonderful cake that Billy knew that, no matter how much he might be tempted, he mustn't spoil that. But what would be the harm in lifting off that top layer, cutting a grand big piece out of the center of the other two layers and putting the top on in place again?

The scheme worked beautifully until his mother's knife went through the top of the cake and struck the empty plate beneath with a sickening, hollow sound.

Later Uncle Jack heard sounds that took him back to his boyhood days, and between sobs, "Well, I didn't spoil the looks of the old cake anyway."

TODAY'S MARKET

GRAIN

Chicago Review.

Chicago.—General selling of wheat and a decided setback in prices resulted today from rains in the Canadian northwest, together with a sharp break in quotations at Winnipeg and at Liverpool. Dispatches belittling any danger from black rust in Canada, especially if the weather remains cool, attracted considerable notice. Reports were also current which indicated that the total wheat yield in the United States for 1924 would exceed last year's total. Opening prices, which ranged from ½@2¼c lower, Sept. $1.31½@1.32¾ and Dec. $1.34½@1.35, were followed by a slight further decline and then something of a rally.

Subsequently, persistent selling on the part of hunters with northwestern and southwestern connections had a depressing effect on values. A tendency to increase estimates of the Canadian crop acted also as a bearish influence. The close was unsettled, ⅞@1¼c net lower, Sept. $1.31⅝@1.31⅞ and Dec. $1.34½@1.34⅝.

Corn and oats showed lack of fresh buying support. Selling pressure in corn was directed mostly against new crop deliveries. After opening ½c to 1¼c lower, Dec. 97@98c, corn prices continued weak.

Better weather and improved crop reports were an incentive to sellers. The close was nervous, ¾@1⅝c net lower, Dec. net lower, 97⅞@98c.

Oats started ½@1⅜c off, Sept. 50@50¼c, and later showed but little power to rally.

Downturns in hogs quotations weakened the provision market.

FINANCE

Wall Street Review.

New York.—Declaration of a 50c extra dividend by the United States Steel corporation for the third successive quarter lifted stock prices higher at the opening of today's market. U. S. Steel common opened 1½ points higher at 104⅞ and gains averaging about a point were scored by pivotal issues, including Baldwin, American Can, and several minor shares.

Independent steel shares were helped by E. H. Gary's statement that there had been considerable improvement in steel buying since July 1. Moderate gains were recorded by Bethlehem, Republic, Stoss-Sheffield and Gulf States Steel, the latter moving up 1¾ points. United States Steel advanced further to 105, the highest price reached in several months. Improvement in general market sentiment encouraged buying of a wide variety of shares, bringing advances of 1 to 4 points in West Penn Power, American Waterworks, Marland Oil, American Cigar Stores, Atlantic Coast Line, Frisco preferred, and Chandler Motors. Foreign exchanges opened steady.

Establishing a new high record on the current movement as [illegible] on the current movement as buying orders continued to pour in, U. S. Steel led a vigorous upswing which embraced the pivotal industrial, specialties, rails, tobacco and merchandising shares. The current steel trade reviews, reporting a measurable increase in steel buying for the third successive week, were especially stimulating in view of the favorable overnight developments. A flock of new top prices for the year included Sears Roebuck preferred, Californite Packing, International Nickel, United Cigar Stores, Nickel Plate, Seaboard Air Line preferred, Omnibus preferred and Atlantic Coast Line up 1 to 4 points. Substantial improvement also was shown by Pere Marquette, Southern Pacific, Lackawanna and New Orleans, Texas and Mexico. Call money opened at 2 per cent.

The closing was irregular. Railroad issues bore the brunt of heavy realizing sales in the late dealings. Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Lackawanna, Erie, Southern Railway and Great Northern and St. Paul preferred issues receding 1 to 2 points. With the exception of the steel shares, industrials also tended lower. Sales approximated 1,200,000 shares.

Six Big Events on August Plan for Playgrounds

Six main events will make the closing weeks of the playground season this year more than usually interesting, according to the plans of Arthur Wheeler, director. The first to occur will be the track meet and athletic events to be held at the Janesville fair, on children's day, Tuesday afternoon, for which training is now going on. The events will include practically every field and track event ever held, and some good records are expected to be made. Good prizes are being offered.

On August 7, the doll carriage parade, which has grown to be an annual feature of playground work here, and the big day of the season for the smaller girls, will be held. Awards will be made to those having the best decorated doll carriages.

Sometime about the middle of August, probably on the 15th, according to Mr. Wheeler, the annual kite tournament will be held, and will be followed on Saturday, Aug. 16, by the water carnival and aquatic meet, to be held at Goose Island. A schedule of the various events is now being arranged.

At the last mother's day of the season, on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 20, a pet show will be held, at which anything from white mice to goats may be entered. The show will be similar to that planned by A. E. Bergman, community boys' work director of the Y. M. C. A. this spring, but prevented by the outdoor activities.

The concluding event of the season will be the annual picnic and track meet on Aug. 22, the last day of the season. It is not known where it will be held yet. Last year the children were taken to Yost park, but it is supposed that it will be nearer the city this year.

WAR DEPARTMENT CANNOT FATHOM BRYAN'S STAND

ment that the "defense test" might convey a wrong impression at a time when the international situation is calm, the department argues that it was "just during such periods of calm that normal measures can be taken without alarming any one else."

Women Condemn Defense Day

New York — The women's peace organization an extreme pacifist body has sent a telegram to Robert M. LaFollette in regard to the defense day plans.

"Please advise what you have done regarding National Defense day. The defense act does not require such a militaristic action. We are advised that you have advised Gov. Blaine of Wisconsin to go further than Gov. Bryan of Nebraska in keeping his state free from feelings which will inevitably impress the world with our hollow, sword-rattling peace, even if the worst fears of the proposed goose-step are abandoned."

COLORADO GOVERNOR WON'T MOBILIZE GUARD.

Loveland, Colo. — Declaring he would co-operate with President Coolidge as far as he deems practical but declaring unequivocally that he would not order the mobilization of the Colorado national guard on national defense day, Sept. 12, Governor Sweet, in an interview with the Loveland Herald-Reporter today went on record in opposition to the idea of the observance of the day.

REVALORIZATION OF TWO ROADS

Commissioner Raises One, Lowers Another in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Washington—Actual values of property held by the iron hauling railroads in northern Minnesota, the Duluth, Messabe and Northern, and the Duluth and Iron Range, were found by the Interstate Commerce Commission today to be greatly in excess of the book values placed by the corporations on their holdings and the stocks and bonds issued against them.

The Messabe railroad, 261 miles long, on June 30, 1919, had $11,853,500 in stocks and bonds outstanding, while the recorded money outlay in construction and equipment was fixed by its books at $35,671,553. The commission, fixing the value tentatively for rate making purposes, held it to be worth $45,780,030.

Capitalization of the Duluth and Iron Range was placed at $14,651,000, while the corporation estimated it had actually spent $25,297,349 in construction and the commission's tentative value was $28,582,609. Both railroads are utilized by the steel industry in delivering ore to Lake Superior for water haul to the east.

Upon the 3,803 miles of line of the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste Marie railroad, the commission fixed a tentative value of $104,737,607. This company has outstanding stock and bonds to a par value of $125,516,460. The corporation's own estimate of the worth of its property is $116,-953,635.

BANK ROBBERS ARE HEADED BY WOMEN

Minnesota Town Terrorized by Bandit Gang—Two Illinois Vaults Cracked.

Rochester, Minn. — A band of 10 bank robbers, headed by two women, terrorized the town of Dover early Tuesday by setting off three charges of "soup" in the First State bank, blowing out every window and door in the building, wrecking furnishings and smashing safety deposit boxes. The blasts failed to open the inner door of the vault, and the yeggs escaped in two automobiles.

The band had cut all telephone wires between Dover and St. Charles and cut all telegraph wires at the depot office.

R. A. Tubbs, railroad agent, living across the street from the bank, turned on a porch light and came out after the first explosion. A rifle bullet missed him by six inches and he turned out the light and went back to bed.

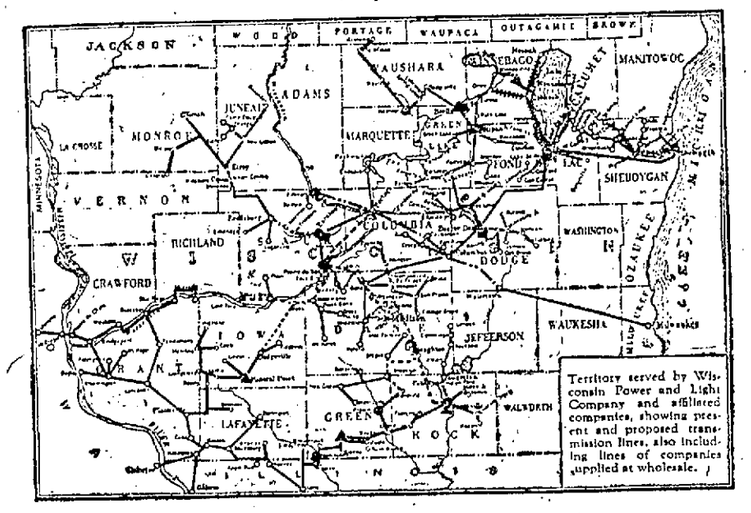

OTHER BANK ROBBERIES

Chicago—Banks were robbed yesterday at Highland, Ill., with a loss of $20,000; at Waltanville, Ill., robbers were frightened away after they had blown the safe; at Cupio, a village in North Dakota near Minot, where they got $1,700.

Janesville Electric Company
Mineral Point Public Service Company
Badger Electric Service Company
Middle Wisconsin Power Company

Territory Served: The new company, through its constituents, serves electrical energy for light and power purposes, without competition, to 90 communities in central eastern Wisconsin extending from and including Fond du Lac and Sheboygan on the north, to and including Janesville and Monroe on the south. The Bonds are further secured by deposit with the Trustee under this mortgage of $5,415,000 par value of the Company's First and Refunding Mortgage Five Percent Gold Bonds, due 1947, (over 84% of the total outstanding). The First and Refunding Mortgage will be presently a first mortgage on property constituting approximately one-third of the value of that now owned by the Company.

DEFENSE BATTLES FOR INSANITY TEST OF LEOPOLD-LOEB

to life imprisonment and they then appeal to the supreme court I will confess error."

"I don't care what you gentlemen do with this case when I get through with it," retorted the judge.

Court recessed for luncheon at 12:30 p. m., with the argument unfinished.

The defense called as its first witness Dr. William Alanson White, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's hospital, Washington, D. C.

Jury If Insanity Plea.

Judge Caverly over-ruled an objection by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe to testimony by any defense alienists. "If your honor gave these defendants a term of years satisfactory to them and their attorneys, not appeal and they would not. I intorneys," argued Mr. Crowe. "I could slat if this question of insanity is raised, it is you honor's duty to impanel a jury and determine that fact."

Judge Caverly shook his head and said "over-ruled," but Mr. Crowe continued on the argument on the legal point he had raised.

During the argument Judge Caverly declared that the defense would not be permitted to go into evidence of insanity, and demanded to know from the state whether it had any authorities to show that would prevent him from hearing evidence as to state of mind or in mitigation.

Time Not Wasted.

After the argument had lasted 90 minutes and gotten back to the state's accusation that the defense was trying to plead both sane and insane at the same time, Walter Bachrach suggested that "an hour and a half had been wasted."

"No," said Judge Caverly, "it has not been wasted. The court will take a day and a half on this if necessary."

The Battle Opens

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Chicago—The state closed and the defense started testimony in the hearing which is to determine the punishment of Nathan Leopold, Jr. and Richard Loeb, for the kidnaping and murder of Robert Franks.

Frank A Sheer was the last witness for the state. He testified merely that he took Loeb's confession the night of May 20.

The court room filled rapidly this morning for the seventh session of the hearing of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, kidnaper-slayers of Robert Franks, expecting startling and dramatic events in connection with the state's resting and the opening by the defense. Far more persons clamored for admission than could gain entrance under Judge John R. Caverly's strict injunction that no one should be allowed to come in after all the seats were filled.

The defendants came into the room with their customary morning smiles for their attorneys and relatives.

Frank A. Sheer, a shorthand reporter who took Loeb's confession, was called by the state and testified to that fact and the state rested.

Confined to Murder.

Judge Caverly called the attorneys to the bench and consulted with them as to separate hearings on the kidnaping charge. It developed that thus far the hearing had technically been confined to the murder charge. The attorneys agreed that 30 minutes of formalities would suffice to dispose of the kidnaping indictment.

Dr. William A. White of Washington, D. C., then was called to the stand as first witness for the defense. He was questioned by Walter Bachrach, of defense counsel and stated his name, residence, age and profession.

"State your professional experience," said Mr. Bachrach.

"I object," said Mr. Crowe.

"Why?" asked Judge Caverly, and the big legal fight of the proceedings was on.

"Because," said Mr. Crowe, "the plea of guilty stops any plea of insanity. I insist that they have no more right to introduce that plea than they have to plead guilty and then try to show the men were in California when the crime was committed."

"It is over-ruled," said Judge Caverly.

Crowe Cites Statutes.

Mr. Crowe read from the statutes the enactment governing conduct of murder trials in which insanity is offered as a defense. He pointed out that the law provided that as soon as the question was raised "it shall be the duty of the court" to empanel a jury and let that body determine the fact.

"Can language be more explicit?" asked Mr. Crowe. "Have we reached the point where a man can plead guilty to avoid a trial by jury? Does the defense desire a trial before one man when they have resisted a trial before 12?"

Judge Caverly Explains.

"Listen to me a moment" said Judge Caverly. "If a defendant came into this court without counsel and pleaded guilty to a crime, the court would have the right to appoint allenists to inform him whether that defendant was competent to plead guilty. I did, in fact, adopt that very course in a very recent case and it resulted in a sentence of life imprisonment.

"It is true that the counsel who might be appointed by the court to defend a man would have no right to waive that man's constitutional right and this holds true right now. I have a right to know whether these boys were competent to plead guilty through their counsel or on their own volition."

On Wrong Tangent.

Mr. Crowe, in arguing, asserted:

"I insist when the court indicates he is with the defense the state has a right to argue. Has insanity justice as a plea?"

The court answered "yess", but at the same time Darrow and Bachrach, defense counsel, joined in a "no".

"You folks have gone off on the wrong tangent," Judge Caverly advised the state. "They are not going to introduce any testimony that they are insane. The state is the only one saying anything about insanity. They are not going to be permitted to put on an insanity defense. Go ahead with your authorities, not as to insanity, but as to mitigation because of state of mind. Go ahead as to the Illinois supreme court."

One of the state's attorneys attempted to cite from Blackstone and Judge Caverly interrupted with "from the Illinois supreme court", and the counter was made:

"The Illinois supreme court is founded on Blackstone."

"You cannot escape it," the state said.

"Well, we'll try to," replied Judge Caverly.

Case for Jury Then

"If there is any question of mitigation because of insanity then it properly becomes a case for a jury trial," the state persisted.

Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, interrupted with one of his cool, infrequent remarks:

"The statute provides the court may listen to anything on mitigation. The legislature has given wide latitude. Anything as to mitigation because of condition of mind is admissable."

Thomas Marshall, indictment expert for the stat's attorney, took up the argument, maintaining that the defense was trying to give to mental insanity and moral insanity the effect in law of legal insanity.

"This is a temple of justice," he said. "A psychopathic asylum is something else. Confusion only arises when the two are brought together."

Walter Bachrach cited authorities to prove the defense contention that the court might exercise discretion within a range embraced by all the circumstances of the defendant's age, previous good character and mental condition. He referred the court to the Tracey case in Nebraska, which he said bore out this contention.

All Talking at Once.

"We had the right to show the psycopathological condition of these defendants, just as we would have the right to show that a crime was committed while the defendants were under influence of a drug."

The argument reached the stage where it was a squabble with five or six attorneys and the court all talking at once and the official stenographers in despair.

Leopold and Loeb leaned forward slightly in their chairs and took in every word.

Finally the court repeated that he was not going to admit any testimony at this hearing to show the defendants insane, but that he would certainly wish to know just what mitigating circumstances might have had an effect on their actions.

WITHDRAWAL of the Niesens from the Midwest league is of great moment in the annals of the organization. Not alone will it mean a revision of the schedule, but it takes out of the circuit a man who has been a power in Chicago semi-professional baseball circles for many years. Back in the days when the old Central Industrial league was formed, with Janesville Samson Tractors as a member, Billy Niesen was one of the leaders in the movement. Then came the Chicago Midwest league, with Niesen in the seat of power. For a while there was war between the Chicago Midwest and the Midwest, settled when the Niesens joined the Wisconsin-Ohio circuit. There was a time when such action would have indicated that Niesen was on the warpath, but the pace of the Midwest is an expensive one, far more so than teams of former days, and there is every reason to believe that the Niesens cannot stand the financial gaff.

POSSIBLY the Madison Blues will now put in a bid for the empty berth, unless some way is found to keep the Niesens in the circuit. Should Madison get into the loop, they are going to be sorrowfully disappointed in the Capitol City with the club they have. The present team cannot hope to play regularly with the strong Midwest teams and make a good showing. True, they have won from teams representing clubs of the Midwest, but none of these teams has been composed entirely of regulars. Besides, the writer is told that the teams have gone to Madison with the idea of getting a little extra coin and not to win and give the fans a full contract.

THE DROPPING of the Niesens will very likely meet with the wishes of some of the clubs, but perhaps they would have liked it better if it had come at the close of the season, so that a revision of organization might be made next year. The Logan Squares and the Niesens have been the weak-sisters of the circuit, and indications were that a change would be in line for the 1925 season. That may be one reason for the Niesens pulling out now. It may be that more evenly matched with semi-pro teams of Chicago and round about, the Niesens can build up more drawing force. There has been talk now for two years of making the Midwest a wheel of cities with shorter traveling. The turn of things now may provide the leverage for such a scheme later on.

Midwest May Drop 2 Clubs

Beloit—Following announcement that the Niesen club of the Midwest league is to drop out of the circuit, Al J. Chubb, secretary of the circuit, stated Tuesday that the club managers would meet in Chicago Wednesday to consider the action.

It is probable as a result of Niesen's withdrawal that the league schedule will be split into half and the Fairies declared champions of the first half of the season.

A new 50 game schedule would then be drawn up and the circuit finish the season with six clubs. It is not known what other club would be dropped, but a decision will be reached at the meeting Wednesday.

Franke Offers to Donate Services to Square Self

Possibility of "Izzy" Franke, Fort Atkinson pitcher, being reinstated by his club, looms through action taken by the twirler on Tuesday. Franke had handed in his suit after last Sunday's Southern Wisconsin league game with Edgerton when the Millers lost.

A summary of the situation was contained in a statement given out Wednesday by Irving Roberts, manager of the Fort team, as follows:

"Izzy" Franke, Fort's crack pitcher for the last two seasons, has requested a chance to square himself with the Fort Atkinson fans. Feeling that the accusations published Tuesday in the Gazette were unjust, Franke has offered to donate his services to the Fort team to prove to the Fort fans and management that they were not justified in condemning him. He asserts he has always been in every game for the sport of the game and has given his utmost to win. The management agrees he has been a great help to them, but owing to the circumstances feels that a special meeting of the athletic committee should be held before any decision can be reached in regard to his wearing a Fort uniform again."

Decision of the league to permit Fort to use Rogers, a recent arrival in Fort, may be reconsidered. A special meeting of the board of directors has been called to be held in the library of the Gazette Friday at 8 p. m. The Rogers situation will be taken up again and also a request by the Janesville Boosters to use Art Wheeler, local playground director and Beloit college star athlete.

Janesville Club on Harlem Links

Between 25 and 30 members of the Janesville Country club went to Rockford Wednesday morning to play the return of a home and home match with the Harlem Hills club. Rockford played here last week and was defeated by Janesville in a match in which some excellent scores were made.

Six Sets of Badger Ends for Next Fall's Eleven

Ball Explodes

Jack Burgess, professional at Lake Geneva Country club, who played with Marty Cromb, Janesville pro, here last Saturday against Cyril Walker, national open golf champion, and Bobby Cruickshank, 1923 runner-up, had one of the most peculiar accidents in tournament history at the state pro meet in Madison, Monday. He was going fairly well and had just got off a drive that took a strange sudden twist. When the ball was found in the rough, it was discovered that the core had exploded. With a lopsided ball, he finished the hole, the shape of the pill requiring three putting strokes.
